RUMANIAN TROOPS NOW RETREATING, REPORTS BERLIN

On European Battle Fronts Interest Centers at Present in Operations in Macedonia and Transylvania.

BIG FORCE OF SERBIANS CROSS THE CERNA RIVER

Petrograd and Berlin Make Contradictory Statements About Results of Fighting West of Lutsk and in Galicia.

New York, October 9.—(By Associated Press European Cable.)—On the battle fronts in Europe, Transylvania and Macedonia continue for the moment the centers of greatest interest. According to Berlin, the Rumanians in Transylvania are retreating along the whole line. The Teutonic allies have captured the town of Toerzburg, 15 miles southeast of Kronstadt, and within seven miles of the Rumanian border. In the Danube, north of Sistova, the Germans have occupied an island, taking six guns and making prioners of the Rumanian troops there.

Serbians in considerable force have crossed the Cerna river in Serbia and captured the town of Skochivir, southeast of Monastir, and also have occupied positions along the north bank of the river.

Considerable hard fighting has again taken place in the region west of Lutsk and further south in Galicia, but the results are somewhat beclouded by reason of the contradictory reports of the Petrograd and Berlin war office statements. Petrograd says the Russians at some points in Volhynia succeeded in entering Austro-German positions east of Vladimir-Volynski, but Berlin reports that these attacks failed with sanguinary losses to the Russians. Near Brzezany, southeast of Lemberg in Galicia, both Petrograd and Berlin record repulses of attacks. In the Carpathians Germans have made an advance at Babaludowa.

Violent reciprocal bombardments are in progress in the Somme region of France. Infantry attacks also have taken place, but no important gains for either side have been chronicled.

Carrying 2,000 Serbian and French soldiers, the auxiliary cruiser Gallia has been sunk in the Mediterranean, with a loss of 638 men.

GREAT BATTLE IN VOLHYNIA.

Petrograd, October 9.—(Via London.) Great battle in Volhynia, east of Vladimir-Volynski, is continuing, the war office announced today, and the Russians have succeeded at some places in entering the Teutonic lines. The positions taken have been consolidated, the statement adds.

In the Brzezany region southeast of Lemberg, the Austro-German forces have assumed the offensive, but were stopped in their attacks by the Russian fire. An Austrian advanced trench in their sector was taken.

The official report follows:

"Western front: In the direction of Vladimir-Volynski, in the region of Zatufze, Shelvov and Bubnov, stubborn fighting continues. At some points our troops forced their way into the enemy lines and consolidated themselves in the occupied positions.

"East of Brzezany, in the region south of Shikhalin, the enemy assumed the offensive, but was repelled by our fire. As the result of a fierce bayonet engagement we captured here an advanced Austrian trench.

"On Thursday a Russian lieutenant and eight scouts fought to the death when surrounded in an enemy trench in which they thought to surprise the enemy."

FIGHTING IN MACEDONIA.

Paris, October 9.—(Via London.)—The following official communication dealing with the fighting in Macedonia was issued today:

"East of the Struma engagements occurred between British troops and Bulgarian rear guard detachments, who are retreating toward the railway. It has been confirmed that during the recent fighting in this region the Bulgarians suffered considerable losses. At one point alone 1,500 bodies of enemy dead were found on the ground.

"Between the Vardar and Cerna rivers the Serbian forces have advanced in the mountainous region of Dobroupolje and taken 100 prisoners. On the left bank of the Cerna river, after des-

Girls "Taking a Bath" Forgot Soap and Water And Destroyed Booze

Federal Officers Tell of Novel Excuse Given by Moonshine Suspect When Officers Attempted to Search House.

Jack Knott, of Spalding county, was tried Monday in the federal court before a jury on the charge of operating a still. The case was concluded and the jury returned a sealed verdict which will be opened today.

Federal officers made an investigation some months ago of the alleged operations of Knott. When they went to search for the still, according to their testimony on the stand yesterday, they were informed that they could not search one room because two small daughters of Knott were taking a bath.

They took up their stand outside of the house. Becoming impatient over the manner in which the small girls prolonged their bath, one of the officers went around the side of the house. There he found, according to his testimony, a stream of liquor issuing from the room in which the girls were supposed to be bathing.

They ordered a search of the room. The officers state that the girls were discovered busily engaged in pouring out several gallons of whisky through some cracks in the floor. On one side of the room was found a small wash basin containing perfectly clear water, a wash rag and a cake of soap, showing that the operation of bathing had not been indulged in, and that the girls were trying to destroy the evidence of the still. A search in the attic of the house revealed the hiding place of a new worm and still.

Knott was questioned on the evidence of the arresting officer, and denied all knowledge of the liquor or the still. He swore he did not know how they came to be in his house nor how long they had been there.

Knott was also tried yesterday on charges of burning an automobile belonging to the officers. The case was sent to the jury, and their verdict is expected this morning. He was indicted with Clarence Thompson, his nephew.

It was alleged by the officers that they received an anonymous letter telling them to come to a certain place one night by automobile and they would be led to a still. When they arrived at the house the owner denied all knowledge of a still. A search was made by the officers without result. They were gone for some time, and on their return found their machine a mass of ashes with an oil can standing nearby. Dogs were procured at once and placed on the trail of footprints leading away from the machine. They led the officers to the house of Knott, where they found Knott and Thompson, his nephew. The shoes of the accused were fitted into the tracks found near the machine and filled them perfectly, according to the officers. Knott denied on the stand yesterday that he knew anything about the case. Thompson was not tried, as he had forfeited his bond and failed to appear.

WANT SEA TERRORS DETAINED IN PORT

Allies Declare Submarines Entering Neutral Waters Should Not Be Given Treatment Accorded Warships.

London, October 9.—The text of the memorandum recently sent by the entente allies to neutral governments respecting the admission of belligerent submarines into neutral waters or ports is as follows:

"In view of the development of submarine navigation by reason of acts which, in the present circumstances, may be unfortunately expected from enemy submarines, the allied governments consider it necessary, in order not only to safeguard their belligerent rights and liberty of commercial navigation, but to avoid risks of dispute, to urge neutral governments to take effective measures, if they have not already done so, with a view to preventing belligerent submarine vessels, whatever the purpose to which they are put, from making use of neutral waters, roadsteds and ports.

"In the case of submarine vessels, the application of the principle of the

SHIPPING DESTROYED BY ONE SEA RAIDER, SAY U. S. OFFICERS

Rear Admiral Albert Gleaves Declares Impression More Than One Submarine Operated to Be Error.

NO TRACE YET FOUND OF CREW OF KINGSTON

Elaborate Methods of Supplying Submarines From American Base Have Been Perfected, Say Reports.

Newport, R. I., October 9.—The wholesale raid on foreign shipping south of Nantucket lightship Sunday was the work of one submarine, according to reports of American naval officers. Rear Admiral Albert Gleaves, commanding the torpedo boat destroyer flotilla, which did such remarkably speedy rescue work yesterday, said tonight that reports of all his officers agreed that to the best of their observation one raider only was concerned. This boat presumably was the German U-53, which called at Newport Saturday.

Admiral Gleaves said he could easily understand the positive statements of the captain of the Nantucket lightship and of sailors of the torpedoed vessels that more than one submarine was concerned. The U-boat, he said, was very fast and appeared to have been handled cleverly. It was easy, he pointed out, for her to disappear on one side of a ship and then show up unexpectedly at another spot. Doubtless, he believed, she had submerged and reappeared often enough to mislead any but a keen professional observer and to create the impression that more than one sea terror was operating.

WAITED TO BE SUNK.

This opinion would seem to be borne out by the statements of many of the refugees that the submarine had more business on hand than she could take care of at once and was obliged to request one steamer to wait her turn while another was being put out of commission. Lieutenant Commander Miller, of the Destroyer Ericsson, who witnessed the destruction of the Stephano, said he was positive that only one submarine was in the vicinity at the time.

Today the raiding has ceased, at least for the moment.

The known list of the victims of the U-boat's Sunday exploits remains at six, notwithstanding reports from the Nantucket lightship that three other ships, the identity of which could not be learned, were sent to the bottom. There also was a persistent rumor, without verification, that a British cruiser, one of the allied patrol fleet sent to the submarine zone, had been attacked.

Ten more refugees were landed here tonight by the Melville, tender of the destroyer flotilla, which picked up ten Chinese members of the crew of the steamer Strathdene. They were sent to the training station to be held until immigration inspectors can pass upon their cases.

Destroyers swept the waters on a wide area today in a vain search for the crew of the steamer Kingstonian, who were seen by members of the steamer Strathedene to take to their boats before their vessel was sunk. Rear Admiral Knight, commander of the Narragansett Bay naval defense district, did not appear to be alarmed at the lack of success in finding the missing men, and saw no reason to change the previous reports that the raid so destructive to property was accomplished without loss of life. It was the commandant's opinion that the Kingstonian's crew had been picked up by an eastbound steamer which did not care to divulge her position to lurking submarines by reporting the fact by wireless.

REPORTS OF BASE

Notwithstanding the lull in submarine activities today, shipping men were by no means reassured. If only one raider were concerned she might be waiting only to replenish her supplies, they believed.

This gave rise to renewal of reports that elaborate methods of supplying foreign submarines from American bases had been perfected.

In order to dispose as far as possible of claims of this sort, as applied to the Narragansett Bay district, William H. Walcott, deputy collector of customs, made a careful investigation today to learn if any merchant boat or yacht had cleared from Newport Saturday or Sunady which might have carried supplies. The investigation, it is understood, was made on orders from Washington. Mr. Walcott found no indication that any such supply boat had cleared.

Another report persisting in shipping circles was that the call of Captain Hans Rose of the U-53 upon American naval officers here, was to give an intimation that rescue ships might be needed in the vicinity soon, as well as to exchange formal visits of courtesy. Shippers pointed to the promptness with which seventeen fleet destroyers had been rushed at full speed to Nantucket lightship within a few minutes after the reports came of the sinking of the first submarine victim, the British freighter, Westpoint. Rear Admiral Gleaves, commander of the tropedo flotilla, desclaimed in a statement to-

Now Leads Russo-Rumanian Forces Fighting on the Danube

GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS.

Grand Duke Nicholas, just recalled from the scene of his triumphs in the Caucasus, now commands the Russo-Rumanian forces against Bulgaria, it is reported. The grand duke has supreme command of all the Russian and Rumanian forces operating in Dobrudja and on the Danube. He may act as an adviser of the Rumanian commanders fighting for possession of Transylvania. Because of the heavy fighting in the Balkans, both on the Rumanian frontier and in Macedonia, the arrival of the grand duke on the Rumanian border, it is believed, will be the signal for the opening of the double-barreled allied offensive on Bulgaria in an effort to close the Austro-German road to Constantinople.

FARM LOAN BOARD TO MEET IN MACON

Announcement Is Made of Nine Southern Cities in Which Information Will Be Collected.

Washington, October 9.—The federal farm loan board will hold hearings in nine southern cities this month for the purpose of collecting information for its guidance in dividing the country into twelve farm loan districts. A farm loan bank is to be established in each district.

The board announced today that it would leave Washington Sunday, October 22. The first hearing will be at Richmond on October 23, and the last at Memphis November 1, the board returning here November 3.

The itinerary as announced follows:
Richmond, Va., October 23.
Raleigh, N. C., October 24.
Columbia, S. C., October 25.
Jacksonville, Fla., October 26.
Macon, Ga., October 27.
Birmingham, Ala., October 28.
New Orleans, October 30.
Jackson, Miss, October 31.
Memphis, November 1.
Texas and the southwest will be visited later, it was announced.

Atlanta After Bank.

President V. H. Kriegshaber, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, stated last night that Atlanta would send a delegation to Macon on October 27 to appear before the federal farm loan board and lay before them the advantages of Atlanta as a location for one of the twelve farm loan banks.

"I am somewhat surprised that the board has picked Macon as the place to hold their Georgia investigation. I was under the impression that the hearings would be held in the capitals of the different states," he said last night when told of an Associated Press dispatch announcing the schedule for the hearings.

"Atlanta has put in a bid for one of the banks, and we will send a delegation to Macon to lay our claims before the board. We know that Atlanta is the logical location for one of the twelve banks, and we will certainly make a fight to land one," he said when asked if Atlanta would send a delegation to the Macon meeting.

Anxiety Is Felt For Safety of Seabrooks On Board French Ship

Atlanta friends yesterday expressed some anxiety about the possible fate of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Seabrook, who are reported to be on the French liner, Espagne, due to arrive in New York today, after passing through the zone of recent German submarine activity. The ship is said to have sailed from Bordeaux about two weeks ago and has on board a number of American passengers. Mr. and Mrs. Seabrook are returning from a period of service in the Red Cross ranks in France.

LITTLE DISORDER ON CIRCUS DAY

Street Car Service Is Normal and Only One Instance of Disorder Is Reported. Railroad Brotherhoods Call Meeting.

Despite the fact that the enormous circus crowds required the operation of a constant stream of additional cars along Auburn avenue and many uptown routes, practically no disorder was reported at the starter's office yesterday in connection with the carmen's strike agitation.

The Ringling Brothers' parade moved through the downtown district without mishap, car service continuing all the while. Every line in the city excepting the English avenue and River routes were operated according to normal schedule.

Brotherhoods Act.

At a joint meeting of committees representing the four big organizations of railway employees held yesterday afternoon resolutions were passed calling a meeting for Wednesday at 2 o'clock to consider means of settling the street railway strike now on. Representatives were present of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Every organization represented in Atlanta is invited to have a representative at the meeting Wednesday, which will be held at the Red Men's wigwam. The purpose of the meeting is stated in the resolutions adopted to be "To settle the strike on a basis of absolute justice to the parties concerned and the citizens of Atlanta."

The resolutions adopted at the meeting were:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this body that we should form ourselves into a permanent organization for the purpose of using our influence to bring about a settlement of the differences between the Georgia Railway and Electric company and its employees upon a basis of absolute justice to the parties concerned and the citizens of Atlanta.

"Resolved, That we hereby invite and request all organizations of whatever character in the city of Atlanta to send representatives with authority to act to a meeting that is hereby called to meet at the Red Men's wigwam on Wednesday at 2 p. m. for the purpose of discussing the situation in a fair and unbiased manner looking to a settlement that will bring all citizens of this city closer together and render justice to all.

(Signed) "G. W. EVANS, chairman,
"Y. R. EVANS, Secretary."

Only One Arrest.

Two watches of the police department were kept on duty all Monday afternoon and last night for the sake of precaution.

The only incident of disorder to occur during the day of heaviest traffic since the strike resulted in the arrest of Ray Ferguson, a striking carman, late yesterday afternoon when he is alleged to have assailed M. Tanner, a conductor on a circus ground trolley.

The incident occurred in the rear of No. 6 engine house on Boulevard, near the show grounds. Tanner had left his car and stepped into the place, it was reported at the starter's office, when he was approached by Ferguson, who

Wilson Makes Demand For Strict Observance Of Submarine Pledges

OFFICIALS BELIEVE SEA RAIDER BROKE NO GERMAN PLEDGE

Washington Realizes, However, That Serious Diplomatic Issues Might Arise From Continued Operations.

EACH INDIVIDUAL CASE CONSIDERED ON MERITS

The State Department Will Also Pass on Feature of Safety of Passengers Who Were Placed in Lifeboats.

Washington, October 9.—So much depends upon President Wilson's decision regarding the German submarine operations in the Western Atlantic, and there are so many possibilities of complications if the U-boat campaign proceeds, that officials here decline to attempt any statement of what the American government's attitude will be.

Although state department officials are convinced there has been no violation of international law in the attacks off Nantucket, they realize that prolongation of operations in waters adjacent to the United States might create situations out of which serious diplomatic issues might arise.

It is understood here that it is to dicuss this feature that Secretary Lansing is going to Shadow Lawn tomorrow. The secretary declined tonight to make any statement regarding his trip or to discuss the U-boat campaign.

BELIEVE PLEDGES HAVE BEEN KEPT.

Officials would not even admit that the state department had reached a definite decision regarding the legality of the U-boat activities It became known, however, that all of the evidence thus far collected by the navy department was regarded as showing that none of Germany's pledges to the United States or her obligations under international law had been violated

Officials indicated that much information had come to navy officials which had been withheld in the interest of neutrality Tonight a warning was sent out to navy, commercial and amateur wireless stations forbidding dispatch of any radio messages regarding movements of any belligerent war vessels.

It was emphasized that all the facts possible regarding the attacks made yesterday and any others that may be reported will be sought. Each individual case, it was said, would be considered on its merits and finally decided separately. After a conference today between Secretary Lansing and Secretary Daniels it was announced that Rear Admiral Knight, at Newport, had been requested to expedite a complete report of the whole submarine foray.

Affidavits will be sought from officers, men and passengers of the torpedoed ships, as well as the rescue destroyers.

SUBMARINE MEMORANDUM.

Whether the situation would be complicated by the new allied memorandum on submarines, outlined in tonight's cable dispatches as urging that any under-water craft entering a neutral port should be detained there, was another subject on which officials were silent. This communication has not yet reached the state department. Officials have considered carefully the subject it discusses, however, and are expected to take issue with any suggestion that American neutrality was violated by the course of this government in its treatment of the German merchantman Deutschland or the German U-53, which called at Newport Saturday.

The danger to neutral submarines through being mistaken by belligerent vessels hinted at in the memorandum, was suggested to the American government some time ago and in consequence every care has been taken to keep American submarines out of waters where mistakes might arise.

There was much discussion among officials today regarding the suggestion that the proximity of the German craft might develop as irritating a situation as that which led to a request by the state department that British cruisers hovering too close to shore earlier in the war be withdrawn. The British vessels, however, were only six miles off shore, while the German operations have been fifty miles from the nearest land and seventy miles from the mainland. Many officials think, therefore, that there will be no complaint on that score.

SAFETY OF PASSENGERS.

The state department regards safety of passengers as an important feature. Counsellor Polk referred to previous correspondence on that subject with Germany. In the Frye case the Berlin government admitted that life boats should be depended on only when general conditions "afford absolute certainty that the boats will reach the nearest port." The fact that American destroyers happened to be at hand for rescue work is considered irrelevant.

The possibility that German submarines have a temporary base of operations on this side of the Atlantic was another topic discussed. At the department of justice it was said there had Ambassador Bernstorff Is Informed America Will Not Interfere With Legitimate Activities of Sea Terrors, But Will Expect Germany to Keep All Promises.

LANSING WILL CONFER WITH PRESIDENT TODAY

Wilson Will Also Hold Conference Today With Jules Jusserand, French Ambassador, at Which Time the Submarine Raids May Be Brought Up for Discussion.

Long Branch, N. J., October 9.—Secretary Lansing, it was announced tonight, will come here tomorrow for a conference with President Wilson concerning German submarine raids off the American coast. Mr. Lansing is expected to remain over night at the president's summer residence.

The announcement that the secretary of state would confer with the president confirmed the impression gained here earlier in the day that the American government considerd the attacks on vessels off the American coast by a German submarine as fraught with grave possibilities. At the same time it was made clear that nothing in the reports so far received to show that international law or earlier promises of Germany have been violated. Concern over the situation centered chiefly about the possibility of what might happen if the submarine attacks are continued.

The position of the American government and its determination to make a full investigation before acting was made clear in the following statement given out by the president:

WILSON'S STATEMENT.

"This government will, of course, first inform itself as to all the facts that there may be no doubt or mistake as far as they are concerned.

"The country may rest assured that the German government will be held to the complete fulfillment of its promise to the government of the United States. I have no right now to question its willingness to fulfill them."

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, who came here today to give the president a personal letter from the German emperor on Polish relief, discussed with President Wilson the new activities of German submarines. It was understood that the president made it clear that while the American government had no intention of interfering with the legitimate activities of submarines, it would insist on the strict observance of the pledges given previously by the German government.

The ambassador, while expressing an entire lack of official information from his government on the new submarine attacks, said that Germany had promised to conduct her submarine warfare in accordance with the rules of cruiser warfare.

The ambassador remained with the president only fifteen minutes and was smiling when he left. He declared he was as much surprised as anybody when the news of the sinking of the first British ship reached him.

It is understood that the talk between the president and the ambassador was entirely friendly, but that the president informed the ambassador of his determination to act firmly if the rights of the United States are infringed. The president has seriously considered going to Brooklyn tomorrow to attend the third world series baseball game, but decided to remain here

Gala Days Galore!

Everybody in Atlanta and their kin are going to take in the great Southeastern Fair that will open its gates Saturday to a wonderland of industrial, economic, and agricultural features, not to mention the most brilliant amusement features ever before gotten together at one time in the South for the entertainment and delectation of the public. This is not a Fair "ad"—but a little gratuitous outburst of enthusiasm for another evidence of Atlanta's enterprise in doing big things—Atlanta's most progressive manufacturers and merchants are going to be splendidly in evidence at the Fair—the ones who daily exploit their wares in The Constitution, and always at the lowest prices—they are all going to have big surprises for you, and a hearty welcome for you at their exhibits.

If you haven't bought your little Blue Key yet, there is a chance for a big gain in doing so now, because—who knows—you might be the lucky winner of that beautiful Automobile.

EXTRA SPECIAL The Constitution is giving free each day this week six pairs of reserved seat tickets to the Grand to the ladies whose names are printed somewhere in the Want Ad. or Classified Section. Look—maybe YOUR name is there. Call at this office for tickets.

JUSSERAND COMING.

Before seeing Secretary Lansing the president will confer with Jules Jusserand, the French ambassador, who is coming to Shadow Lawn to bring a personal letter from President Poincaire, of France, to President Wilson on Polish relief.

It is considered probable that during the conference the French ambassador may lay before the president the view of the entente governments that German submarines should not be allowed to come into American ports. This point probably will be taken up by the president with Secretary Lansing tomorrow night.

During the day the executive officers were in communication with Secretary Daniels, and received preliminary reports assembled by the navy department on the submarine activities off the American coast.

The general trend of these reports was to the effect that so far as had been determined the rules of international law had been complied with by Germany. It was made clear, however, that these reports were of a preliminary character and were not conclusive. Secretary Daniels was instructed to keep the president fully informed of all developments.

caught the conductor by the collar, handling him roughly.

"If you don't take off that damned badge," Ferguson is reported to have said, "we'll kill you."

Policeman J. L. Whatley was on the scene and interfered, carrying Ferguson to police headquarters, where he was lodged under a charge of disorderly conduct. Trolley officials are proposing to also arraign him before the state's court for violation of the injunction issued at the beginning of the strike by Judge Ben Hill against the striking carmen and their leaders.

Judge Will Not Appoint Committee.

Judge John T. Pendleton stated last night that he did not propose to appoint the committee of nine requested by the executive commitee of the citizen's committee for the purpose of devising means to end the strike agitation.

"I will not take a hand in the matter as long as there is dissension between the car company and the business men of the committee," Judge Pendleton told a reporter for The Constitution. "More definite steps than this will have to be taken before I would be justified in appointing a committee or participating in any manner in the affair."

A resolution indorsing the action of the striking street car men and electrical workers, formerly employed by the Georgia Railway and Power company, was passed by Local No. 1 of the International Association of Machinists at their last meeting held in the Temple of Labor. After a preamble reciting the machinists' belief in the right of all workmen to organize for their betterment, they say:

"Be it resolved, That our association go on record as heartily indorsing the action taken by your organization; be it further

"Resolved, That you may expect our full co-operation, both morally and financially, until a successful agreement shall have been reached."

been no evidence of such a base in American waters.

A mail report on the visit of the U-53 to Newport Saturday reached the navy department tonight from Admiral Knight. It described the submersible's movements while in American waters.

"The vessel," the report continued, "is much larger than our L-class (450 tons). The freedom with which officers and crew conversed with visitors and their willingness to show all parts of the ship were very surprising.

"I have nothing upon which to base an opinion as to the real object of the commander in entering this port."

Admiral Knight tonight sent a dispatch saying that none of the American destroyers had been able to locate the crew of the Kingstonian, who put to sea in small boats yesterday when that vessel was sunk.

In issuing its warning to wireless stations tonight the navy department announced that government operators would close down any station that failed to observe the censorship regulations.

night absolutely any prior knowledge of the intention of the German U-boat.

NO PRIOR KNOWLEDGE.

"My only information," he said, "was contained in an S. O. S. message which said that the steamer Westpoint had been sunk and that her crew had taken to the boats. The natural thing to do was to get out every available vessel to search for the crew. As it happened, it was fortunate that we had so many ships out and I am very glad that we were able to render the aid we did."

He concluded with the declaration that nothing had passed between him and Captain Rose during their formal calls which gave any indication as to what the plans of the U-boat commander were.

Admiral Gleaves received today from various sources, official and otherwise, commendation for the rescue work of the various vessels under his command. He also received a number of offers of aid and supplies for the care of the survivors. Admiral Gleaves expressed his appreciation, but stated that the survivors were amply taken care of.

A testimonial of appreciation for the assistance rendered by the flotilla, particularly the aid given by Lieutenant Commander D. C. Hanrahan and the men of the destroyer Balch who picked up the passengers of the Red Cross line steamer Stephano, was signed by the passengers and crew of the liner.

In many quarters the opinion was expressed today that another outbreak of the U-boat and her consorts, if she had any, would not be surprising. It was reported by members of the crew of the steamer Strathdene that the submarine which sank her had filled her fuel tanks wtih oil from the Norwegian tank steamer Christian Knudsen before the latter was sent to the bottom. Other refugees have declared that they saw a German supply ship hovering in the vicinity of the raid Sunday.

Although fuel tanks may have been replenished from the Norwegian vessel, naval officers expressed the opinion that after a day of such remarkable activity as yesterday's the submarine must be short of ammunition. Reports of many of the refugees agree that the submarine which halted their ship were prodigal in the use of shells and most of them were of the opinion that after their steamer had been shelled it was given her finishing blow by a torpedo.

laws of nations is affected by special and novel conditions. First, by the fact that these vessels can navigate and remain at sea submerged and can thus escape all control and observations; second, by the fact that it is impossible to identify them and establish their national character, whether neutral of belligerent, combatant or non-combatant, and to remove the capacity for harm inherent in the nature of such vessels.

"It may further be said that any place which provides a submarine warship far from its base with an opportunity for rest and replenishment of its supplies, thereby furnishes such addition to its powers that the place becomes in fact, through the advantages which it gives, a base of naval operations.

"In view of the state of affairs thus existing, the allied governments are of the opinion that submarine vessels should be excluded from the benefit of the rules hitherto recognized by the laws of nations regarding the admission of vessels of war or merchant vessels into neutral waters, roadsteds or ports and their sojourn in them. Any belligerent submarine entering a neutral port should be detained there.

"The allied governments take this opportunity to point out to the neutral powers the grave danger incurred by neutral submarines in the navigation of regions frequented by belligerent submarines."

NEGRO DIES WHILE WAITING TO PAY FINE

Hubert Fergerson, of 7 Jones' alley, has gone "where the good darkies go," and left his fine of $5.75 unpaid. Hubert was fined by the recorded Monday afternoon on a charge of "drunk and disorderly," and his people requested that he be held over until they could return with the amount of hs fine. But Hubert neither paid his fine, nor waited until his people returned, for last night, about 8 o'clock, he was the victim of a severe hemorrhage of the lungs while in his cell. He was hurried to the Grady hospital, where he died a few minutes afterward.

130 AEROPLANES LOST BY ALLIES, SAYS BERLIN

Berlin, October 9—(Via London)—The French and British lost 130 aeroplanes last month on the western front, as compared with twenty-one lost by the Germans, the war office announced today.

The Cycling McNutts, Forsyth, all week.

The old and usual means of transportation in the Bulgarian army was the ox-cart. It was used in the first advance into Serbia. Now the motor truck has replaced it. The officer in charge of the supply department says that one truck does in a day the work of 500 oxen, 250 carts and 300 men.

PHYSICIAN'S WIFE GAINS 15 POUNDS BY TAKING TANLAC

"I'm Obliged to Think Well of a Medicine That Accomplished What Tanlac Has in My Wife's Case," Says Dr. J. L. E. Brantley.

Dr. J. L. E. Brantley, a prominent practicing Atlanta physician, residing at 605 South Pryor street, went into Jacobs' Pharmacy last Saturday to purchase another bottle of Tanlac for his wife, and made the following statement regarding the benefits she has derived from the medicine.

"I'm obliged to think well of a medicine that accomplishes what Tanlac has in my wife's case. She has gained all of fifteen pounds on three bottles and is now a well woman in every respect.

"She had suffered from indigestion and nervousness since 1909. She could not retain anything scarcely on her stomach and was troubled a great deal by the formation of gas. She suffered constantly with headaches and backache and was nauseated more or less all the time. She couldn't sleep and rest at all well on account of her nervous condition, and she became very weak and thin.

"I decided to buy Tanlac for her because it was so highly indorsed for troubles like hers, and I'm glad to say the results have been most gratifying. She eats anything she wants now and her stomach is alright. Gas has stopped forming and she retains and digests her food properly and has built up wonderfully. The headaches and pains in her back are broken up and she sleeps well every night. I consider her improvement most remarkable and I can now recommend Tanlac for what it has done for her."

Tanlac is sold in Atlanta exclusively by Jacobs' Pharmacy.—(adv.)

Popular Vaudeville.

(At the Piedmont.)

There isn't the slightest doubt of the fact that the Sullivan and Considine booking office is sending south a brand of acts well up to the highest vaudeville standard. All those who doubt are invited to go to the Piedmont theater this week and have a look at the bill. After the show is over those who believe they have not been given the worth of their money will find it easy to get what they paid back. Manager Hardcastle will be glad enough to offer to return it, for he knows he is betting on a sure thing. His money is safe.

All of which is another way of saying that instead of demanding money back people will be going to the front office and asking for a season reservation. Judging from the steady improvement in bills and the very high class of the last few weeks every patron of the house will soon be coming twice a week as a regular thing in order to take advantage of the split week.

There are three acts this week of usual merit. They would make good anywhere and on any bill, it mattered not whether that house be on Broadway or in London.

Perhaps the best is that of Lozier, Worth and company. Those three acrobats, who dress their act well and put it on a little differently from any seen here in a long time, have a wonderful routine. They have at least two features which stand in the very forefront of acrobatic endeavor. To describe them is difficult. It is much easier to apologize to Caesar and then tell an audience of readers to "go, see and believe." If you don't believe it ask almost anybody who was present Monday matinee and night. Two local athletes raved about their work, some girls thought it "too cute for anything" and even the manager of the house, Deputy Sheriff Ted Hardcastle, declared the act one of the best he had ever seen.

Hurrying on with this criticism, before the three boys have a chance to demand of the aforesaid manager an increase in salary, it is time to say another good word, or several of them for that matter, anent the work of Inspirato, the eccentric violinist. He is as much at home in ragtime as in grand opera, and in opera as in syncopation. In addition, he is not above a little comedy now and then, and never yet has the combination failed to please.

Stopping for a moment at the act of George Lea and Leddie Bennett, the temptation is to linger there indefinitely. The reason is that the critic doesn't go wrong very often if he agrees with what the audience thinks. And in the case of this team the crowd seemed to be perfectly willing during the matinee to stay in their seats until supper was cold, and at night to remain seated until bedtime had passed, and it was the moment to stretch and start to work in the morning.

The man is funny and the girl is good looking. That starts off well. They both know how to sing. They both have what is often described as personality. Call it that or call it something else, they certainly have the ability to hypnotize an audience, and they were in fine working trim Monday. Tuesday they promise to be even better.

There are two other acts on the program, the Russell sisters and Morton and Rossie. Both numbers offer songs for the delectation of the chair warmers.

And now the tag: It's a good show to see. ROBERT MORAN.

RAIN AND COLDER IS FORECAST FOR TODAY

"Tuesday, rain and cooler," the report of the weather man issued Monday, will probably bring sorrow to the hearts of many who had anticipated the joys of the circus, but it probably will not deter them from attending, just the same. They will go and hope that the weather man is wrong.

The forecast is for the entire state, but the reference to the cool wave is for the northern portion of the state only. In the extreme northwest very cold weather is reported with temperatures ranging below freezing at some stations. This cold wave is expected to reach Atlanta by today in a modified form.

Unsettled conditions have been reported from almost all parts of the country with light rains in numerous places. Temperatures in Atlanta yesterday remained about the same, ranging between 70 and 76 degrees.

The Wealth and Beauty of the Season's Fashions Now Displayed in the C.-J.-DuB. Co.'s Ready-to-Wear Section

Note Note with emphasis; Friday's and Saturday's and the first express yesterday morning brought us the greatest quantity of ready-to-wear we have ever received in three days—suits, coats, dresses.

And now let's explain that note—

Our ready-to-wear buyer is just back from New York. The great quantity and variety of the women's and misses' apparel that we have been receiving these last few days are the result of his activities. But the big thing, the thing that lends assurance and color to the situation is that all this quality and all this variety are made up of suits, coats and dresses that he CHOSE—picked out himself—because they had about them the mark of excellence of style; and now we will be ready this morning with more lovely, charming fashions than we have ever before had the right to boast of.

Bolivia Cloth, Broadcloth, Velour Suits, and Coats, Serge and Silk Dresses make up the greater part of the new arrived fashions—about as many of the coats and suits are fur trimmed as are plain tailored. Quite a few are reproductions (by some of America's most notable makers) of Paris originals—but the labels tell that story. There's an unusually large percentage of styles for women who require sizes from 42 to 46 bust measure; there is a group of taupe suits (velour) that should be prominently mentioned.

In fact, the whole story is one of splendid readiness on the part of the Ready-to-Wear Section to provide the smartest of the just evolved fashions. And this we know—the women of Atlanta will enjoy such a display! The charm of the new fabrics, the grace of the lines of the suits, the elegance, the richness and the coats and the trim beauty of the dresses—

Suits $25 to $135 Coats $25 to $75 Dresses $15 to $50

SELLING BY THE TRAIN LOAD!

SEVEN MILLION BOTTLES OF TANLAC SOLD IN TWO YEARS

Fame of Celebrated Medicine Sweeps Over Whole Nation Like a Great Tidal Wave—Story of Marvelous Growth and Development More Like Tale From Arabian Nights Than a Modern Business Achievement—Tanlac Now Sold From Coast to Coast and Gulf to Great Lakes.

MORE like a tale from the "Arabian Nights" of old than the record of a modern business reads the story of the truly marvelous growth and development of Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results in all parts of the country.

The first bottle of Tanlac to reach the public was sold just a few days less than two years ago in the thriving little city of Lexington, Ky. Since that time, there have been sold throughout the United States something over Seven and a Quarter Million bottles, and a romance which has no parallel in the modern business world was begun.

The instant and phenomenal success which Tanlac won in Lexington has been duplicated in practically every large city, small town, village and hamlet in North America. Hawaii, Alaska, Cuba, Porto Rico and other countries have clamored for Tanlac.

Never before, perhaps, in all history has the demand for a proprietary medicine ever approached the wonderful record that is now being made by Tanlac. The old illustration of the pebble dropped into the pool best describes the marvelous growth of its ever-increasing demand, and its fame has swept over the nation like a great tidal wave.

From coast to coast and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes Tanlac is known and honored. Millions have taken it and have pronounced it the greatest medicine ever given to the people, and the only explanation of Tanlac's triumph in the commercial word is Tanlac's true worth. Back of Tanlac's triumph in the drug stores stands Tanlac's triumph in the homes. It is the people's medicine and the people themselves have made Tanlac what it is.

No matter where you go Tanlac is a household word and it is now unquestionably the most widely talked of medicine in the world today. One person invariably tells others about a medicine that helps him and in this way scores or even hundreds may hear of Tanlac as a direct result of one bottle in a single home.

But with all its magnificent success, it remained for the Southern states, particularly Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and other states supplied through the Atlanta office, to make the most phenomenal record yet achieved in this country, and the South alone now requires considerably over a Million bottles a year.

When asked to explain this record-breaking demand for Tanlac, Mr. G. F. Willis, Southern and Western distributor, said:

"There can be but one possible explanation and it can be told in one word—merit. That tells the whole story. No preparation, no matter how extensively advertised, could possibly meet with such phenomenal success unless it possessed absolute merit and extraordinary powers as a medicine."

HUGE ORDER FOR TANLAC IS GIVEN

Big Plant at Dayton, Ohio, Forced to Double Capacity. Will Have Daily Output of Thirty Thousand Bottles.

What is probably the largest single order ever given for a proprietary medicine was one for six carloads of Tanlac received a few days ago for immediate delivery by the Cooper Medicine Co. from Mr. G. F. Willis, southern and western distributor, with headquarters in Atlanta.

Ask the manager of the Cooper Medicine Co. at Dayton, Ohio, and he will tell you that there are 1,060 dozen of Tanlac to the carload, or 12,720 bottles. This means, therefore, that 76,320 bottles will be shipped to the south within the next few days to supply the tremendous demand. This is in addition to numerous single carload orders received from the same source during the past thirty days, to say nothing of another order for five and one-half cars during August.

Although the big Cooper laboratories at Dayton are now capable of turning out 15,000 bottles daily, the rapidly increasing demand has made it necessary to double their capacity and in a few weeks' time they will have a daily output of 30,000 bottles, which is probably the largest in this country.

ABSOLUTE MERIT RESPONSIBLE FOR TANLAC'S SUCCESS

It Pays to Advertise, But Success Is Impossible Unless There Is a Dollar-for-Dollar Value Behind the Article Advertised.

This is an age of advertising, and everyone is familiar with the popular saying, "It pays to advertise."

Advertising is a business force. So potent is the charm cast by its spell it has been known to perform marvelous feats and to accomplish phenomenal results.

It cannot be truly said, however, that everyone who advertises succeeds, for unless full value underlays the article advertised the advertising would ultimately fall of its own weight. In this connection we must not forget the words of the immortal Lincoln, who said: "You can fool some of the people all of the time; you can fool all of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time." So if there is not behind every advertisement a dollars and cents value to the article advertised, no amount of advertising will stimulate the sale on such an article beyond a certain point. This applies to every line of business, and the modern business man or firm can only succeed through honest advertising and fair dealing.

Hot air will put up a balloon but it won't keep it there. So, when the manufacturers of Tanlac placed it on the market something over a year ago they did so with the firm conviction that they were offering to the people the best and purest product of its kind on the American market today. They did not hesitate, therefore, to expend vast sums for advertising because they knew that the more the people heard about Tanlac the more they would buy it.

The success the preparation achieved was immediate and people everywhere were quick to recognize its genuine merit.

Tanlac has never been advertised as a "cure-all" or that it would perform unheard-of wonders. The advertising has been clean, straightforward and constructive. Actual facts and figures have been stated and stated in a businesslike way in a manner that has commanded confidence in the conservative claims set forth.

Underlying these claims there has been real value, not from a dollars and cents point alone, but from health as well.

And that's just where Tanlac has scored. And that's why it is here to stay.

PROMINENT MEN OUT FOR TANLAC

Mayors, Judges, Lawyers, Doctors, Editors, Leading Educators, Ministers and Others Indorse Master Medicine.

One of the most striking and noteworthy features in connection with the introduction of Tanlac in the south has been the large number of prominent men who have unhesitatingly and voluntarily come forward and given Tanlac their unqualified indorsement.

These well known men of affairs represent practically every branch of professional and commercial life, and included in the list appear the names of distinguished supreme court judges, mayors of our leading cities, prominent state and county officials, bankers, lawyers, doctors, editors, leading educators, government officials and even ministers of the gospel.

These men have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell the people what this medicine has done for them, for they have recognized in Tanlac a new discovery and a scientific triumph in the medical world. It is a well known fact that these splendid indorsements have been given Tanlac time and time again, and they will continue to be given just as often as new tests of its powers are made. It must be borne in mind, however, that the published testimonials represent only one in a thousand of those who have been benefited by its use.

Among the large number of prominent men whose indorsements have appeared in the public press within the past few months are the names of such well known and distinguished men as the following:

Hon. McKenzie Moss, judge of the Eighth judicial circuit, of Kentucky.

Hon. Frank V. Evans, former mayor of Birmingham and at one time editor of The Birmingham Age-Herald.

Hon. Moses R. Glenn, state superintendent of printing, Frankfort, Ky.

Dr. G. W. De La Perriere, of Winder, Ga., one of the best known physicians and capitalists in the state of Georgia.

Hon. John B Gaines, editor and publisher of The Bowling Green Daily News and president of the Kentucky State Press Association.

Mr. George W. Hinton, former secretary of the Warren County Equity League.

President Pegg, of the Newport Business college.

Rev. W. C. Norton, pastor of the Wesley Memorial church, 523 Estell street, Jacksonville, Fla.

Hon. C. W. Mangum, of Atlanta, sheriff of Fulton county.

Mr. C. C. Cooper, president of the Georgia Home Cotton Oil Co., Lawrenceville, Ga.

Dr. W. H. Brown, founder and president of the Tennessee Protestant Home for Girls.

And many others too numerous to mention.

MISS LE REU DAVIS, OF CHATTANOOGA, TENN. WEIGHED ONLY 76 LBS.

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 76 pounds—I now weigh over 100 pounds, and am gaining every day," said Miss Le Reu Davis, residing at 210 Glass street, Chattanooga. "I bought my first bottle of Tanlac at Gas City, Ind., and it helped me so much I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. I rarely ever had any appetite and simply could not relish anything. I fell off until I only weighed 76 pounds, and was so thin I looked perfectly awful. This is the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac. Oh, I feel so different now. Even my complexion has improved. My appetite is good and I can hardly get enough to eat. Tanlac is simply grand, and I can truthfully say it is the only medicine that ever did me any good."

PHYSICIAN'S WIFE GAINS 15 POUNDS BY TAKING TANLAC

"I'm Obliged to Think Well of a Medicine That Accomplished What Tanlac Has in My Wife's Case," Says Dr. J. L. E. Brantley.

Dr. J. L. E. Brantley, a prominent practicing Atlanta physician, residing at 605 South Pryor street, went into Jacobs' Pharmacy last Saturday to purchase another bottle of Tanlac for his wife, and made the following statement regarding the benefits she had derived from the medicine:

"I'm obliged to think well of a medicine that accomplished what Tanlac has in my wife's case. She has gained all of fifteen pounds on three bottles, and is now a well woman in every respect.

"She has suffered from indigestion and nervousness since 1909. She could not retain anything scarcely on her stomach and was troubled a great deal by the formation of gas. She suffered constantly with headaches and backaches and was nauseated more or less all the time. She couldn't sleep or rest at all well on account of her nervous condition, and she became very weak and thin.

"I decided to buy Tanlac for her, because it was highly recommended for troubles like hers, and I'm glad to say the results have been most gratifying. She eats anything she wants now and her stomach is all right. Gas has stopped forming and she retains and digests her food properly and has built up wonderfully. The headaches and pains in her back are broken up and she sleeps well every night. I consider her improvement most remarkable, and I can now recommend Tanlac for what it has done for her."

Tanlac is sold in Atlanta exclusively by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co.

ATLANTA SALES HAVE PASSED MILLION MARK

Eighty Carloads, Over a Million Bottles, Sold Through Atlanta Office Alone Since Last October—Biggest Wholesale and Retail Drug Firms of the South Unite in Giving Tanlac Unqualified Endorsement.

JUST a few months ago it was announced in the Atlanta papers that twenty-two carloads—265,476 bottles—of Tanlac had been sold throgh the Atlanta office alone.

Since that time, March 16th, approximately three-quarters of a million bottles have been sold, and the grand total now stands at something over a million, or, to be exact, One Million, Six Hundren and Thirty-six bottles.

These are actual figures and the fact that eighty carloads of Tanlac have actually been sold and shipped into the South since the first day of October, 1915, is a matter of record and can easily be verified.

One retail firm, the Jacobs Pharmacy Company, alone have sold at retail right here in Atlanta the astonishing total of 57,000 bottles. What is true of Atlanta is also true of practically every other large city in the South where the sales have been correspondingly large.

The greatest drug firms of the country have voluntarily come forward and stated in plain, cold figures the record-breaking sales everywhere, and the following letters from well-known wholesale and retail drug firms of the South give ample evidence of the true worth and widespread popularity of Tanlac.

BIG MEMPHIS FIRM SELLS 2 CARS A MONTH

"Tremendous Sales Phenomenal and Bewildering, to Say the Least of It," They Say.

Memphis, Tenn., September 7, 1916.
Mr. G. F. Willis,
1101 Fourth Natl. Bank Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: It would be a very hard matter for us to write a letter expressing just our feelings and experience in regard to Tanlac. We know that the day of miracles is past, and we all know that there are no unfathomable mysteries in the drug business, and yet this Tanlac proposition smacks of both. For one firm to be able to sell at the rate of one car load every two weeks, and for this record to keep up until now we have sold more than nine car loads, and have another one coming, it is just the least you can say, phenomenal and bewildering.

Tanlac is giving entire satisfaction to our trade and it is a constant and regular repeater from the same sources, and our customers write us that their demands are persistent in the way of repeat orders as well as from new users.

The uniform courtesy and consideration—the splendid business policy displayed by Mr. Willis with us as his wholesale distributors, and through us our agents, has been everything that we could ask; and we wish you continued success, and hope that you will realize on your wishes to in every way stabilize and permanently perfect the popularity and continued sale of Tanlac. Yours very truly,
THE HESSIG-ELLIS DRUG COMPANY,
(Signed). R. R. ELLIS, President.

LARGEST IN HISTORY OF THEIR BUSINESS

Nashville, Tenn., September 6, 1916.
Mr. G. F. Willis,
1101 Fourth Natl. Bank Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: It gives us pleasure to state that the wholesale distributing agency of TANLAC for this territory, secured from you about one year ago, has proven very satisfactory to us.

Our books show that during the year we have bought and disposed of over ten cars of Tanlac in this immediate territory, thereby setting a record as the largest sale by us, in a given time, of any proprietary remedy, in the history of our business.

These sales have been made with no effort on our part and without complaint on the part of our patrons and sub-agencies.

With best wishes for your continued success, we remain. Yours very truly,
SPURLOCK-NEAL COMPANY.

Vice President and Gen. Mgr.

ATLANTA FIRM AVERAGES $6,000.00 PER MONTH

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 8th, 1916.
Mr. G. F. Willis,
Fourth Natl. Bank Bldg.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: We have yours of the 5th inst. stating that you have taken on additional territory, and we trust that you will have the same success with Tanlac in the new territory that you have had and are still having in this section.

We find from our records that you made the first delivery of Tanlac to us on Oct. 28th, 1915, and from this date (Oct. 28, 1915) to September 1st, 1916 we have sold to the trade $60,512.00, an average of over $6,000.00 per month.

Tanlac has been a very profitable item with us, and we have had no trouble whatever with customers to whom we have sold it. It has proven the greatest seller of any medicine we have ever handled for the same length of time.

Wishing you continued success, we are, Yours very truly,
LAMAR & RANKIN DRUG COMPANY.

MONTGOMERY JOBBER SELLS FIVE CARLOADS

Montgomery Ala., September 7, 1916.
Mr. G. F. Willis,
1101 Fourth Natl. Bank Bldg.
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: Replying to your letter of the 5th inst. we do not hesitate in saying that we have considered our agency a valuable asset to our business, and especially so since the business relationship between yourself and us has been so exceedingly pleasant and agreeable.

We have just referred to our ledger and find that our first car load of Tanlac was bought Feb. 9th, this year, and since that time we have purchased four additional cars. Prior to the purchase of our first car we received 180 dozen.

Tanlac is still moving with us at a remarkable gait and we do not hesitate in stating that it is undoubtedly the most remarkable seller that we have handled since we have been in business.

With best wishes, beg to remain,
DURR DRUG COMPANY,
F. G. Salter, Sec'y and Treas.

EIGHT CARLOADS SOLD BY MACON JOBBER

Macon, Ga., Sept. 7th, 1916.
Mr. G. F. Willis, Fourth Natl. Bank Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of the 5th requesting an expression of opinion from us as to our experience with Tanlac, we are pleased to advise you that from November 17th, 1915, to date we have bought and sold eight car loads. There has been a marvelous demand for the preparation and it still keeps up. Yours very truly,
LAMAR, TAYLOR & RILEY DRUG CO.,
Per J. B. Riley.

BIRMINGHAM DEALER SMASHING ALL RECORDS

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 9th, 1916.
Mr. G. F. Willis, Fourth Natl. Bank Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: It gives us pleasure to state that our sales on Tanlac have been satisfactory in every way and our relations from a business standpoint have been absolutely perfect.

We have handled since the first of last December an average of about one car load per month, and have yet to receive our first complaint from a dissatisfied customer.

Tanlac continues to hold front rank in Alabama, and from present indications it will continue to do so for years to come. Yours very truly,
DOSTER-NORTHINGTON DRUG CO.,
J. T. Doster, President.

THE SAME OLD STORY DOWN IN JACKSONVILLE

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 6th, 1916.
Mr. G. F. Willis, Fourth Natl' Bank Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: Tanlac is a winner with us. As you know, we have bought more than three car loads within the last three months.

We are very much pleased with your co-operation in moving these goods. It is one of the best accounts we have today.

Wishing you the best of success, we are, Yours very truly,

BANKERS STRONGLY RECOMMEND DRAUGHON'S ATLANTA COLLEGE

Mr. Pope Enrolls at Draughons' College on Recommendation of Home Bank and Accepts Good Position as Bookkeeper and Typist After Completing Course.

Draughon's Business College is recommended by more bankers and other business men than all other business colleges in the South combined. These recommendations are from bankers and business men who have employed Draughon's graduates, and who know the value and prestige of a diploma from Draughon's Atlanta College.

This enviable reputation and popularity of Draughon's Business College among business men is merited by 30 years' successful operation, capable instructors, thorough and practical courses of study, and individual efficiency of every graduate.

The following is an extract from a letter which the College has just received from Mr. J. W. Pope, of Bostwick, Ga. It is a sample of the many letters which the College receives from its graduates:

"When I decided to secure a business education, I consulted by home bank for advice and information concerning the best business school and it unqualifiedly recommended Draughon's as being the best.

"After taking a course of Bookkeeping and Shorthand in your College, I am thoroughly convinced that the thorough courses of study, methods of instruction, and your facilities for securing employment for your graduates amply sustained the bank's recommendation.

"I appreciate very much your securing for me a position as Bookkeeper and Typist for the Bostwick Supply Company. The manager, who is also a graduate of Draughon's, says that my work is satisfactory."

Ringling Bros.' Show This Year Proves a Revelation Even to The Most Blase Circus-Goer

It Is Pronounced the Ultima Thule of Sawdust Spectacles — Marvelous New Features Win Approbation of Large Audience of All Ages.

By Britt Craig.

The circus genius for thrills and novelties is as inexhaustible as the town drunkard's fund of alibis.

Never have I been more firmly convinced of this than last night, when I sat in at old man Ringling's three-ring phantasy.

For years I've been going to circuses. Have seen them ever since I jogged through the main entrance crowds on paternal shoulders, weeping for every pink balloon in sight, and suffering paternal suppression when I asked to know what was in the Oriental dancer's tent.

That was some time ago.

The time had come when I thought I had seen all the circus had to trot out. If there was another thrill or novelty or spectacle, I really had no idea whatever where it was coming from, since Aladdin's lamp was stolen away back yonder by one of Ali Baba's city hall gang.

But last night the resourceful Mr. Ringling illusioned us into a thing or two, the first being the introductory spectacle of "Cinderella," childhood's best-loved story, which came to life again in a dazzling flood of radiance, and lived for a few all-too-brief moments in a bewildering pantomime performed by hundreds of richly costumed characters.

Was a Revelation.

That such a thing as Ringling's "Cinderella" can be transported beneath the "big top" is no doubt the most flattering tribute that can be lavished upon the "big top." It was a revelation—all that, and more—of the tropical richness of the circus mind, its wealth of imagination, its genius for execution.

Not until you have seen "Cinderella" will you understand, for there are no riots of color, splashes of beauty, seas of splendor on this particular typewriter on which we are now in travail. "Cinderella" is the newest birth of sawdust conjuring. It is performed upon a massive stage, upon which the enactment is first confined, but from which it later overflows to nearly half of one side of the "big top" in a tide of rare splendor. The story of childhood's favorite fancy is unfolded, including the prince's escort around the arena, in which he is followed by an astounding train of mediaeval figures, band playing, trumpets blasting, gongs sounding harps strumming, voices caroling.

The word kaleidescopic has been used so often in describing Ringling's show that we lead it gently by a feeble shoulder as it is again dragged to service. But, looking over the standing army of adjectives, we can find none more apt. If you try to compass all the show, you miss most of it—so do as I did, and keep your eye on a single ring; one is as good as the other, and they're all as good as the best.

Luckily, I faced ring and stage No. 2, whereon in the course of the night's events, the shapely and cunning Mlle. Leitzel, this year's headliner, since Bird Millman, the aerialist, this season prefers Broadway and the Amsterdam roof. Besides distinguishing herself by the costume she did not wear, the mademoiselle evoked perhaps the night's most thunderous ovation.

Great Woman Gymnast.

As naive as a circus Mary Pickford, as shapely and statuesque as a sawdust Ann Pennington, and as girlish as your own little bob-haired young'n, she performs in mid-air feats of strength, skill and daring that give the gooseflesh round-trip accomodations to all parts of the spinal system. She is billed as positively the world's greatest woman gymnast. Positively, the billing is in nowise wrong.

If there was a dull moment throughout the entire program, it got in at another address—not mine. Hardly had I recovered breath from the thrilling aerial jugglings of the eminent Clarkonians, than astonishment seized me over the exploits of Johannes Josseffson, the Icelandic gladiator, who, in a Hall county roughhouse, would make an ideal scrubwoman, using a score of brawny adversaries for mops. On the same program were the Tamaki Japanese troupe of jui-jitsu exponents, whose feats of self-defense enlightened me to a point of dire apprehension in regard to the well-known "yellow peril."

Ringlings'-1916 follows sawdust traditions in that it concludes with the gasping chariot races and speed contest, wherein super-men and super-women dash across the arena in wild flights, made wilder and fightier by the presence of spectators threading their precarious ways beneath the dashing feet of the galloping stallions. There is a wild west show as concert. It is traditionally, Ringlingly superb.

This circus, for the first time in Atlanta's history, is making a tow-day stop. It is here this afternoon at 2 o'clock and tonight again at 8.

If you miss it, you will miss the Ultima Thule-to-date of circuses.

After Brief Vacation Maine Convicts Are Back in U. S. Prison

Chief Deputy United States Marshal Burton Smith, of Portland, Maine, arrived in Atlanta Monday with three prisoners, each sentenced to a term in the Atlanta federal prison. They were Robert Townsend, alias Robert Thompson, of Cherryfield, Maine, and Peter F. Bayneham, alias John Kane, of Gilead, Maine, both sentenced for three years, and Fred Cherbone, of East Newport, Maine, with a sentence of two years. Each of the prisoners was convicted of breaking into a postoffice.

This is the second time Mr. Smith has brought Townsend and Kane to the Atlanta prison. Robert Townsend was brought here February 25, 1911, under the name of Robert Thompson, along with George Sullivan and George Flemming, each charged with having broken into a postoffice, and each being sentenced to a term of five years. They were released, however, November 11, 1914. Bayneham was arrested at Massachusetts and brought to Maine under the name of Peter H. Bayneham. He was recognized as John H. Kane, who was brought here, along with Percy F. Hansen, in December, 1913. The first time Townsend was brought to the Atlanta penitentiary he had been trailed by a bloodhound for eight miles, from the place of his alleged crime to a depot where he was caught.

"This represents the twenty-fifth trip from Maine since 1909, of men bringing prisoners to your prison," said Mr. Smith. "This is my eighth trip."

Methodist Ministers Say "No" to Sunday Opening of the Fair

At the meeting of the Methodist ministers of the city Monday, the following resolution was passed and sent to the directors of the Southeastern Fair association:

"Resolved, That we earnestly protest against the opening, with an admission fee, of the Southeastern fair on Sunday, or of the sale of any commodity, or the opening of any amusement sideshows. We make this protest because the opening of the fair on Sunday will violate the laws of Georgia and of God and do great damage to the sanctity of the Sabbath, in which are bound up the religious, as well as the social and commercial prosperity and happiness of the human race. We pledge ourselves, if the fair is not opened on Sunday, to announce that fact to our congregations from our pulpits. (Signed) Chas. O. Jones, Luke Johnson, J. W. Quillian, W. H. LaPrade and C. V. Weathers, Committee."

UGH! CALOMEL MAKES YOU DEATHLY SICK

Stop using dangerous drug before it salivates you! It's horrible!

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards.

Pre-Nuptial Parties For Wedding Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Peters entertained last night at their home on Ponce de Leon avenue in compliment to their niece, Miss May Atkinson, and Mr. Jackson Jackson Dick, and the occasion was one of elegant detail and the happiest spirit.

The guests were the wedding attendants, including the ushers and their wives, the family party and out-of-town guests.

The house was festive with a profusion of pink and white cosmos with palms and ferns, and a delicious supper was served indoors and on the verandah, the warmth of the moonlit October night making the porches, with their growing plants and flowers, particularly inviting. A handsomely appointed buffet table in the dining room was in pink and white, the centerpiece a silver bowl of cosmos.

Mrs. Peters wore a graceful gown of gray chiffon. Miss Atkinson's charming costume was of coral satin and chiffon, the chiffon heavily embroidered in a flower design in corals and pearls, the pearls shaped like petals.

Another beautiful entertainment anticipating the wedding was the family reunion at buffet supper Sunday evening, when Mrs. Nellie Peters Black was hostess. The out-of-town guests were also included, and a delightful hospitality was expressed.

The season's cosmos in pink and white was used again in effective profusion, and their colors were repeated in decorative detail. Supper was served at two handsomely appointed tables.

Receiving with Mrs. Black were her daughters, Mrs. Lamar Cobb Rucker, of Athens, and Mrs. John MacDougald.

Ararat Grotto Will Hold Open House Friday Night

Ararat Grotto will hold open house Friday night in their club rooms, corner of Forsyth and Mitchell streets, in honor of the wives, sisters and sweethearts of the members. None but wearers of the fez and their best lady will be invited to the entertainment

Arrangements are in the hands of a committee, the personnel of which guarantees that Ararat Grotto and the visiting sisters will have one of the biggest times in the history of the local grotto.

The program for the evening includes, in addition to dancing, a spectacular electrical display that has been arranged as the feature of the evening. Music for dancing will be furnished by Ararat Grotto orchestra. Refreshments will be served.

In addition to the ladies who will be present, the guests of honor will be the sixty new members of the grotto who were initiated Monday night. These new members will have sufficiently recovered from their recent trip into the sacred realm of the grotto to trip the light fantastic toe.

Atlanta Woman's Club Holds First Fall Meeting

The first regular meeting of the fall of the Atlanta Woman's club was held yesterday afternoon, Mrs. John N. McEachern, the president, in the chair.

The minutes were read by Mrs. Victor H. Kriegshaber, recording secretary, after which Mrs. McEachern made an able and interesting address, in which the spoke of the splendid work of the Atlanta Woman's club in the past and future hopes of the club. The new officers and chairmen were presented by the president to the club.

A happy incident was the presentation of a beautiful basket of flowers to Mrs. McEachern as a token of love and appreciation from the Methodist women of Atlanta, with whom she has been so closely associated in church work for a number of years.

Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Mrs. Bolling Jones and Mrs. P. J. McGovern, ex-presidents of the club, each made a few minutes' talk, and chairmen of the various committees, reported. Miss Alice Baxter gave a splendid paper on current events.

After the business of the regular meeting had been transacted Mrs. Linton Hopkins rose to the floor to ask that the Atlanta Woman's club take measures to indorse the principles of equal suffrage.

A spirited debate followed, in which Mrs. Emily McDougald, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Miss Alice Baxter, Mrs. Chauncey Smith and others took part. Action on the question was postponed until the next regular meeting of the club, when the entire membership of the club could be present.

Mrs. McDougald made a strong argument in favor of the club indorsing the suffrage principles. She said it was a question of vital interest to the women of the country and read a list of the many organizations already indorsing the movement.

Mrs. Wilson argued that since the club was non-political and non-sectarian, the question of suffrage should not be introduced into the club at all, the club already being so full of interest and activities. Mrs. Bolling Jones, in her argument against the resolution, made the point that the constitution and by-laws of the Atlanta Woman's club provided that the club be non-political and non-sectarian and that it would be necessary to change the constitution and by-laws in order to pass such a resolution.

Miss Alice Baxter, while distinctly for suffrage, questioned if it was wise to bring the subject before the club at this time, when the members seemed so divided in sentiment.

Mrs. Lollie Bell Wylie, of the Woman's department of The Atlanta Georgian, and one of the best known newspaper women in the south, made an interesting talk on "Blazing a Trail for Newspaper Women in Georgia." A bright paper by Miss Isabel Ormond Thomas, of the woman's department of The Atlanta Journal, was read by Miss Susie Wells. Miss Wells, chairman of the press committee, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Charles J. Haden was unanimously elected delegate to the state federation meeting, to be held in Macon, October 24-27.

Jonas-Reardon.

Mr. I. S. Jonas, of New York, announces the marriage of his daughter, Jeanne Leslie, to Mr. George LeRoy Reardon, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Wednesday, October 4, Rev. Dr. Duffield, of the Presbyterian church, officiating.

The bride has many friends in Atlanta, the city of her birth and early rearing. Her father was a citizen of Atlanta a number of years and is a journalist and publicist of national distinction. Her mother was the beautiful Miss Jennie Echols, an Atlanta beauty and a much beloved woman.

To Mr. Gregg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hall Miller were hosts last night at a beautiful dinner at the Piedmont Driving club, the occasion a compliment to Mr. Lewis Gregg, whose birthday it was.

In the party were Miss Mamie Ansley and her guests, Miss Jenkins, of Virginia, and Miss Hodgson, of Athens, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Raine, Mr. Lewis Gregg, Mr. Dick Gregg, Mr. Fax.

The table centerpiece was an artistic arrangement of cosmos in all its shades, and the place cards in flower design held verses appropriate to each guest. On Mr. Gregg's card was a poem apropos of his approaching wedding, the poem a beautiful tribute from his friend, Frank L. Stanton.

Mrs. Miller wore a becoming costume in black and white chiffon.

Informal Dinner.

Mr. Forry Laucks, of York, Pa., gave a pretty little dinner last night at the Georgian Terrace in compliment to Mrs. D. P. Dick and Mr. and Mrs. Sam K. Dick.

At the Tea-Dance.

Entertaining at the tea-dance at the Druid Hill Golf club Saturday afternoon were:

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Coolege, who entertained Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Hill, Messrs. Cator Woolford, K. R. Cobb, Winter Alfriend, H. R. Calif, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McCrea. Mr. and Mrs. George J. Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. McHan, Mr. W. B. McBurney, Dr. and Mrs. Dunbar Roy, Mrs. W. E. Foster, Mrs. C. W. Strickler, Mrs. C. P. King, Mr. Forest Adair and Mr. Robert Troutman.

Waring-Goodman.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Govan Waring, of Norfolk, Va., 35th street, was the scene yesterday of one of the most interesting of the early autumn weddings, when their daughter, Lurline, was married to Mr. Donald Goodman. The house was artistically decorated with autumn flowers, ferns and palms. Rev. R. Aubrey Williams, pastor of the Park Place Baptist church, officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of white crepe de chine trimmed with point lace and pearls. Her veil of tulle, which was caught to the hair by a string of pearls, formed the train. Her only ornament was a pin of pearls and rubies, an heirloom of the family. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Miss Mary Ward Thompson, of Nashville, Tenn., was her maid of honor. She wore a yellow taffeta frock trimmed with gold lace and carried a shower bouquet of golden rod. Her matron of honor was Mrs. W. S. Lassiter, who wore a charming gown of pink taffeta trimmed with lace; she also carried a shower bouquet of golden rod. The maids were Miss Bengovan Waring, a sister of the bride, and Miss Clara Smith, of Atlanta, Ga. Both were gowned in yellow taffeta trimmed with lace and carried arm bouquets of golden rod tied with tulle. Little Sara and H. Govan Waring, Jr., preceded the bridal party and opened the gates between the living room and the library, where an altar of palms was tastefully arranged.

Mr. K. O. Howells was Mr. Goodman's best man. Mrs. W. L. Waring, of Jacksonville, Fla., sang "O Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Naomi Abel, who also played Mendelssohn's wedding march and "Tales of Hoffman" throughout the ceremony.

At the conclusion a buffet luncheon was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Goodman left for Boston and other northern points. Upon their return they will be at home to their many friends in the Bedford apartments.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. W. L. Waring, Dunnsville, Va.; Mr. Robert L. Waring, Wicomico, Va.; Mr. John C. Taliaferro, Reedville, Va.; Mr. Bernard Taliaferro, Reedville, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Waring, New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Waring, Jacksonville, Fla.; Miss Clara Smith, Atlanta, Ga.; Miss Mary Thompson, Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. Ira L. Goodman, Mahaney City, Pa.; Mrs. W. M. Harris, Marshall, Texas.

Fain-Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Fain announce the marriage of their daughter, Lanora Estelle, to Wiley Y. Smith, Wednesday evening, October 4, 1916. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are at home to their friends, 429 Bedford place.

Musicale at Mrs. Wilkinson's.

A musical will be given at the residence of Mrs. Mell R. Wilkinson, 1052 Peachtree road, on Friday evening, October 13, at 8 o'clock, for the benefit of the Thornwell orphanage, of Clinton, South Carolina.

The program is under the direction of the Atlanta Conservatory of Music, Mr. George F. Lindner, director, and will be of a delightful nature.

As the institution which will receive the proceeds of the entertainment is a most worthy one and in need, it is hoped that the friends who are interested in its welfare will co-operate with the women who are planning in this way for its immediate relief. Tickets may be secured at the door for the sum of 50 cents, and the public is cordially invited.

To Mrs. Dawson.

Miss Maybeth Pritchard gave an enjoyable afternoon party Saturday, in compliment to Mrs. R. A. Dawson, a recent bride. Roses and ferns decorated the house and heart-dice was played, Miss Alberta Honour winning the prize, a handkerchief. The guest of honor was showered with pretty souvenirs.

Miss Pritchard wore a dainty lingerie gown, and Miss Dawson's gray taffeta gown was worn with a becoming hat of white beaver.

Ancker-Benjamin.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Ancker, of Philadelpaia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Irma Loeb Ancker, to Mr. J. Malvern Benjamin, of Chicago, formerly of Atlanta, Ga.

Atkinson-Dick.

The marriage of Miss May Peters Atkinson and Mr. Jackson Porter Dick will take place this evening at 8:30 at All Saints' Episcopal church. A reception will follow at 9 o'clock at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Miss Crichton to Entertain.

Miss May Crichton will entertain at the first of a series of luncheons on Wednesday, October 18, at her home on Piedmont avenue, when Miss Blanche Devine, of Carters, the guest of Miss Caroline Blount, will be guest of honor.

Miss Elizabeth Burdine, of Miami, Fla., who will be the guest of Miss Marion Dunson, will be honor guest at the second luncheon to be given the latter part of the month, and on November 2 Miss Crichton entertains for Miss Lamar Slaton and Miss Alice Preston, of Virginia.

Miss Harmon's Luncheon.

Miss Dorothy Harmon entertained at a pretty luncheon yesterday at the Piedmont Driving club in compliment to Miss Mamie Ansley and her guests, Miss Lil Hodgson, of Athens, and Miss Virginia Jenkins, of Suffolk, Va. The table had as its centerpiece a basket of pink and white cosmos and the place cards were hand-painted.

Miss Harmon was gowned in blue velvet with hat to match trimmed in silver flowers. Miss Ansley wore a becoming gown of black and white with black hat. There were fourteen guests.

For Miss Van Hook.

Miss Sarah Bell was hostess at two tables of bridge yesterday afternoon at her home on Peachtree street in honor of Mrs. Philip McDuffie's guest, Miss Eleanor Van Hook, of St. Louis. Bright fall flowers attractively decorated the drawing room where the game was played. The guests invited to meet Miss Van Hook were:

Mrs. McDuffie, Mrs. Inman Bell, Mrs. William F. Shallenberger, Miss Marion Van Dyke, Miss Catherine DuBose, Mrs. Clarence Haverty and Miss Josephine Stoney.

ATLANTA SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS HEAR DR. ROBERTSON

The opening sessions of the Atlanta School of Methods held at the Central Presbyterian church Monday afternoon and night were very gratifying to those in charge of the arrangements. Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, of Chicago, who is to be the elementary specialist through this school, was on hand and charmed those who heard her. She is a very pleasant and entertaining speaker and one who knows thoroughly the work of the elementary grades in the Sunday school from birth to thirteen years of age.

THE REV. DR. A. T. ROBERTSON.

Sterling L. Williams, of Kansas City, Mo., though a young man, caught the audience with his splendid address on "Getting Ready to Teach" at Monday afternoon's session. The attendance in the adult section in which he is a specialist was better than had been hoped for.

The program provides that each night from 7:50 to 8:30 there is to be a Bible period conducted by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Robertson, professor of New Testament interpretation, Southern Baptist Theological seminary, Louisville, Ky. He will speak on the Gospel of St. John from which the International Sunday school lessons are to be taken for the ifrst half of next year, 1917, making this period of the school all the more interesting to Sunday school workers.

Dr. Robertson is one of the best informed Bible scholars in the south. Twenty-eight years ago as a young man, assistant to the late Dr. John A. Broadus, he followed his master to D. L. Moody's Bible conference at East Northfield, Mass. Dr. Broadus lectured on the Book of Hebrews. The Rev. A. T. Robertson slept that year in a canvas tent and began to open his eyes to the world around him, and dreamed that some day he might, like the master, come to Northfield and lecture on Hebrews. This year, after twenty-eight long winters, the dream came true, for this year at Northfield conference the student now becomes a master, received the greatest ovation at the conference.

DAY HORSE SHOW.

Animals Will Be Exhibited During the Day.

In addition to the horse show which will be held each night of the Southeastern fair, there will be an exhibition of horses, mules and ponies each morning during the fair, from October 17 to the 21, inclusive. All animals exhibited at the day shows will be shown at halter. Classes have been provided as follows:

Percheron, draft horses of various ages and both sexes.

Championship moneys will be given for champion stallion, champion mare, get of sire, produce of mare and grand display.

In addition to the regular premiums the Percheron Society of America has offered a large list of special prizes in about thirteen specified classes.

Other classes provided for the day show are as follows:

Class 7, open to stallions, any type or breed, to be shown to hand with three of their get under 5 years of age. Three prize moneys are offered in this class.

Class 8, brood mare special. Three prizes are offered for brood mare and colt at foot, any type or breed.

Class 9, Shetland ponies. Six classes provided. Three money prizes given in each class. Ponies must not be over 46 inches high to be eligible to entry.

Department B is for mules and jack stock.

Class 10 provides eight classes for mules of various ages and both sexes. Three prizes given for each class.

Class 11 provides eight classes for jacks and jennets of various ages. In each class three prize moneys are offered.

SIXTY INITIATED.

Ararat Grotto Initiates Many Monday Night.

Sixty trembling, nervous, anxious neophites were initiated last night into the secrets of the Mystic Order of Prophets of the Sacred Realm by Ararat Grotto. The sixty candidates were introduced to every phase of the initiation game, and when the rising sun broke up the meeting Tuesday morning ambulances were called to carry the newly-made brothers to their many homes.

Today there is a great demand for arnica, liniment and absorbent cotton for the men who traveled the mystic mazes last night have reached the climax of a morning after.

The newly initiated prophets will be the guests of honor at a dance to be given Friday night by Ararat Grotto at their temple, corner of Mitchell and Forsyth streets. While they were forced to doubt Monday night if such a thing as brotherly love existed, they will find Friday night that the lane has reached its turning and the neophite of Monday is the lion of society Friday evening.

RUMANIAN TROOPS NOW RETREATING

perate fighting, the Serbians have again defeated the Bulgars and the village of Skochivir has fallen into Serbian hands. Despite violent counter attacks the enemy failed to recapture his lost ground and has been driven a kilometer northward. Two hundred prisoners remained in the hands of our allies.

"Further west the Serbians continue to cross the Cerna between Droboveni and the Brod. The Bulgarians have retired north of the Brod. On our left wing Franco-Russian forces have reached the new line of Bulgarian defense from Kenali to Lake Presba."

Statement From Berlin.

Berlin, October 9.—(Via Sayville.)—Regarding the operations against the Rumanians in Transylvania and Dobrudja the war office statement of today says:

"In eastern Transylvania we continue to march ahead. The Rumanians were beaten in the battle of Kronstadt. Reinforcements arrived from the north in vain and joined the combat northeast of Kronstadt. We conquered Toerzvar, or Toerzburg. The enemy is rolling back on the whole line.

"Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen. German troops assisted by Austro-Hungarian monitors captured by a surprise attack an island in the Danube northwest of Sistova. Two officers, 156 men and six cannon were taken."

BRITISH EXTEND THEIR POSITIONS.

London, October 9.—The British forces which crossed the Struma river on the eastern end of the Macedonian have extended their positions north and south, occupying several more villages.

These operations are described officially as follows:

"On the Struma front our mounted troops moved forward to the line of Kakaraska Salmah-Homondos, meeting with little opposition. Further north the villages of Chavdar-Mah, Ormanli and Haznatar were occupied by our troops.

"On the Doiran front there were no developments."

Press Attacks in Galicia.

Berlin, October 9.—(Via London.)—The Russians are pressing their attacks in Galicia, but are meeting with successful resistance by the Austro-German forces, according to today's official report. The troops of Archduke Charles Francis gained ground in the region of Babaludowa.

The statement follows:

"Army group of Prince Leopold: Against a section recently attacked on the front west of Lutisk the Russians yesterday repeated their assaults. They did not obtain any success at any point and again suffered heavy losses. The battles resulted in a sanguinary defeat of our enemies. Southeast of Brzezany Russian advances were repulsed.

"Army group of Archduke Charles: In the Carpathians by a surprise advance we pushed forward our positions at Babaludowa and defended the ground gained in a violent hand-to-hand fight."

Prisoners Secured By British in Raids On German Trenches

London, October 9.—Today's official statement regarding operations on the Franco-Belgian front says:

"Gas was discharged successfully at different points along our front north of the Ancre. The enemy's reply was feeble and our patrols were able to enter his trenches and secure prisoners. Several raids were carried out by us in the neighborhood of Neuville, St. Vaast and Loos. The enemy's trenches were entered in all cases, many casualties being inflicted and a number of prisoners taken. In addition three machine gun emplacements were destroyed and considerable damage done to the enemy's trenches."

Calm on the Somme.

Paris, October 9.—The French official statement issued today says:

"On the Somme the night was calm north of the river. To the south there were bombardments on each side.

"In the Roye district the enemy carried out a very lively bombardment against our Canny-Sur-Matz positions. Our artillery replied.

"On the rest of the front there was nothing to report."

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.

Paris, October 9.—(Via London.)—The following official communication was issued tonight:

"On the Somme there has been sustained activity by our artillery. The enemy's reply was particularly brisk in the region southwest of Barleux and in the regions of Belloy and Deniecourt.

"This morning an enemy attack, starting from the St. Pierre Vaast wood salient to the east of Rancourt, was repulsed by grenades. Shortly afterward a reconnaissance debouching from the small wood northeast of Bouchavesnes was dispersed by our machine gun fire.

"On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report."

FAKE CIRCUS TICKET SELLERS ARE ARRESTED

Frank Spartman, of Jackson, Miss., and Frank Smith, of Boone, Iowa, both negroes, were arrested last night by the police on a charge of cheating and swindling. It is alleged that these two were caught red-handed selling fake circus tickets to gullible members of their race. Bond was set at $100.75, and the negroes were locked up, being unable to make it.

COUNTY POLICE SEEK DYNAMITE THIEVES

The county police, along with Chief George Mathieson, were kept busy [illegible] searching for the culprits who stole fifty or sixty sticks of dynamite from the powder magazine of the North View Cemetery company Sunday. The magazine is situated near the Chattahoochee river, between Chattahoochee avenue and the Marietta road, and is a small brick building with a heavy iron door. The thieves broke down this gate, and emptied the box in which the explosives were kept. No clue has as yet been discovered.

Highland Ave. Sewer Extension to Begin Some Time This Week

Excavations for the extension of the Highland avenue sewer across Ponce de Leon avenue for a distance of about 227 feet north, will be started this week according to information received from the county commissioners. Material for the work will be furnished by the city while the county will pay for the labor. Citizens of the fourth ward, where the work is to be done, are very much pleased over the prospect of having the sewer enclosed in a short time. They regarded the condition during the past summer as a menace to the health of the community.

YOUNG BOY KILLED WHEN GUN IS FIRED BY HIS PLAYMATES

Moultrie, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—Paul Fussell, six-year-old son of C. W. Fussell, was accidentally shot and killed this afternoon. Two other boys, sons of J. T. Brownlee, who was dangerously cut in an altercation with J. H. Cook Saturday, were playing with him at the time, and one of them, though neither will say which, held the shotgun when it was discharged, it is said.

The entire load struck the little boy in his neck, tearing a hole an inch in diameter. A piece of flesh plowed out by the bunched shot was found more than twenty feet from the spot where the victim fell dead.

The accident occurred at the Brownlee home, where the Fussell family were spending the afternoon.

MRS. MAY GRANT DEAD AT LOCAL SANITARIUM

Was Daughter-in-Law of the Donor of Grant Park to Atlanta.

Mrs. May Stansbury Grant, widow of John A. Grant, died Monday morning at a private sanitarium, after an illness of three weeks. Mrs. Grant was Miss May Stansbury, of New Orleans, before her marriage.

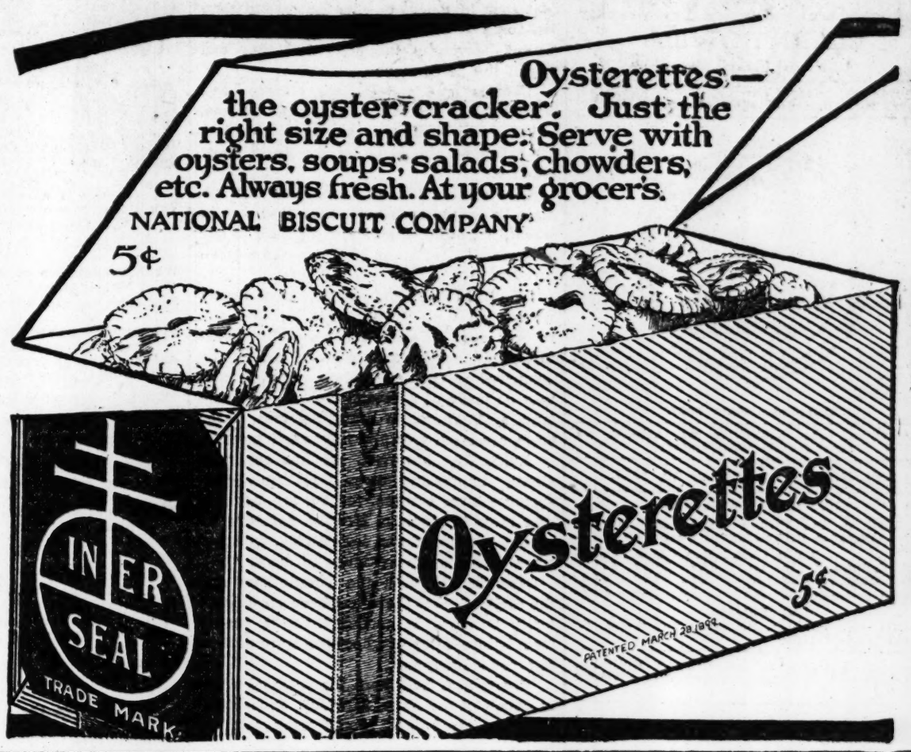

The deceased was the widow of the late John A. Grant, general manager of the Texas and Pacific railroad. She was the daughter-in-law of the late Lemuel P. Grant, who donated Grant Park to the city, and was one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of Atlanta during his lifetime.

Mrs. Grant is survived by four children, Miss Gladys, Mrs. W. M. Childs, of Greenville, Miss., and L. P. and J. A. Grant, Jr., one brother, C. C. Stansbury, and one sister, Miss Rosa Stansbury.

The funeral services will be held this afternoon from the residence, 24 East Eighth street.

MADISON CO. SCHOOLS HOLD SUCCESSFUL FAIR

Athens, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—The Madison county schools, thirty of them, have just closed their first school fair—the courthouse at Danielsville being turned for three days into an exposition building, the school exhibits and individual exhibits crowding the bar, the judge's stand, the jury room and the witness rooms and solicitor's office. Speeches by prominent educators and extension workers, demonstrations by the boys' and girls' clubs, a parade with nearly 2,000 school children in line were features—of the biggest occasion Danielsville ever had. Danielsville High school took first school prize; Pocataligo, second; Carlton and Ila tied for third, and Hull fourth. Snelling, of Meadow school, and Waggoner, of Carithers school, won the scholarships to the Southeastern fair courses.

For All Complexion Ills

If the skin be colorless, sallow, muddy, over-red, blotchy or freckled, nothing will so surely overcome the condition as ordinary mercolized wax. It literally takes off a bad complexion—absorbes the dead and near-dead particles of surface skin, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience at all. A new complexion is then in evidence, clear, spotless, delicately soft and beautiful. One ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug-store, will rejuvenate even the worst complexion. It is used like cold cream.

The Golden Jubilee's Glorious Silks

A Once-In-Fifty-Years Display That Seems to Be a Composite of All the Fashions of Fifty Years

Come, sit down, make yourself comfortable, we have something to show you—yes, something very, very beautiful to show you—the silks we have collected for our Golden Jubilee Display.

But let's think back a minute over the half century of silk history that the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. has written in the book of fashions—Georgia Edition.

Fifty years ago, Oct. 1, when this then little store opened its doors, perhaps its greatest claim to the favor of the women of this section was its silks—the rich, fine silks that the women of the South gloried in—the old moire antiques, the velvets, the soft, luxurious velours. That they were beautiful is attested by the growth that marked this phase of the young business. It grew and grew through succeeding years, through succeeding style changes. Indeed, this silk store was a source of inspiration in the days of the polonaise and the basque, and the hoop skirt. It has seen one style grow into another—and has supplied with these succeeding changes the silks that were most adaptable—the plain grosgrains, the reps, the rather heavy outstanding taffetas, the brocades, the lovely pompadours and Dolly Vardens.

It is, it has been for a half-century the heritage of this Silk Store to give to the women of Atlanta the accepted silks of the season.

It was with this thought in mind, and the incentive to excel in a marked way all of the fifty years of the past that we gathered the silks for our Golden Jubilee Display!

Come, be seated, make yourself comfortable, we have something to show you—yes, something very, very beautiful to show you.

A Pebble-Back Satin—40 inches wide, bids fair to win a high place in women's favor—a soft, exquisite quality in black, white and street and evening shades and a remarkable value at $2.50 a yard.

Satin Tailleur, the imported satin with just enough body for suits and coats—40 inches wide; black, navy, wistaria, taupe, gray, green, brown and Burgundy. $4.00 a yard.

Satin Francais, 36 inches wide, brilliant sheen, black, white, street and evening shades, $2.75 a yard.

Satin de Luxe—36 inches wide; it will be liked for dresses—black, white, street and evening shades. $2.00 a yard.

Skinner's Satin, the all-silk, two-season satin lining; black, white and colors. $2.00 a yard.

Lunette Satin, the satin of a different finish. Crepe-y, one of the high lights of the display—black, white and all colors. 40 inches wide. $3.00 a yard.

Voile Satin, a very high lustre satin, 40 inches wide, in black, navy, marine, Hague, wistaria, green, taupe, brown, Burgundy. $4.00 a yard.

Crepe Meteors, one at $2.00 a yard deserves special mention on account of its weight and fine lustre. It comes in black, white and street and evening shades. 40 inches wide. A still heavier quality, 40 inches wide, is $3.50 a yard.

Wexbar Satin Suede—all that its name implies. A satin with the softest suede finish. 40 inches wide, in black and street and evening shades. $4.50 a yard.

A Special Crepe de Chine at $1.39 a yd. It is 40 inches wide and is all, every thread, silk and heavy. It comes in black, white, light blue, navy, pink, flesh, nile and mais.

Satin Messaline, 36 inches wide, black, white and all colors. $1.25 a yard.

Faille Matinee, the new—an ever so lightly corded silk, just heavier than taffeta, beautiful for afternoon frocks and coats. 36 inches wide, in black, white and the favored new shades. $2.50 a yard.

Failles, a variety of light and heavy failles, 36 and 40 inches wide; black and colors. Priced at $3.00 and $3.50 a yard.

Poult de Soie, a soft "grain surfaced" silk that has the brilliancy of satin and the service of what it is—an improved satin. It comes in about every color and black. 36 inches wide. $3.00 a yard. The rich brocaded patterns, 36 inches wide, are $5.50 a yard.

Gros de Londre, 36 inches wide, black, white and colors, a superb quality at $1.75 a yard.

A Special Taffeta—We urge women to see and finger this taffeta. 36 inches wide; in black, white, street and evening shades, at $1.50 a yard.

Plaids, Stripes—Not in fifty years such glorious colorings, such lovely effects, simple, modest patterns, bold, daring patterns, original, lovely—27 to 40 inches wide. $1.39 to $4.50 a yard.

Exquisite Novelties—the charming things that Paris indulges in, the loveliest of America's own manufacture. The materials are Georgette crepes, chiffons, satins and grosgrain silks—but how they are weighted with threads of gold and silver and plaids and stripes of brocades! $4.00 to $18.50 a yard.

Georgette Crepes—Orders placed a number of months ago are now a savings account for the women of Atlanta. Black and white and all colors. $1.75 to $2.50 a yard for the plain shades—the plaids, the stripes, the flowered designs go to $4.50 a yard.

Lunette Crepes, for which we have the exclusive agency in Atlanta, are notable for their beautiful finish and their strength—washable and all silk—black, white and colors. $2.25 a yard.

The Register of the Favored Woolens

Below is a list of woolen fabrics that are winning favor—because they are true blue, good sorts that tailor beautifully.

Serges, qualities at $1.00, $1.50 to $3.00 a yard, splendid all! The great demand for serge dresses is proving what these are. Black and all colors.

Serge Special, a 36-inch wide, all-wool serge at 69c. Fine weave—comes in black, navy, brown, red, green, gray, tan and Copenhagen.

Togo Cloth. In favor now; a new, different sort of granite weave. Black and street shades. 40 inches wide. $1.00 a yard.

Wool Poplin, two exceptional values at $1.00 and $1.25 a yard; 40 inches wide; black and all street shades.

E'pingle—a fabric that is being used a great deal right now for dresses. It is 50 inches wide. $1.50 and $1.75 a yard.

Gabardines. A sturdy cloth 54 inches wide, black and colors; is $2.00 a yard. Excellent for suits and skirts.

The Broadcloth that every woman appreciates the moment she sees it. It is sponged and shrunk and has a beautiful satin finish; black and colors. 52 inches wide; $2.00 a yard. Other broadcloths at $2.50 and up to $6.00 for the loveliest imported quality.

Coatings. Rich, luxurious woolens—plaids and stripes; the most effective colorings of years. $3.00 to $4.50 a yard.

Corduroys. 27 inches wide. Black, white and street colors. $1.25 a yard.

Velveteens. Excellent, lustrous, silky—black and colors; 27 inches wide; $1.75 a yard.

THE LESSON OF THE U-53.

The significant fact about the sinking of six vessels belonging to the Allies, or carrying war merchandise for them, by German submarines just outside of New York harbor, is that it has brought to our very doors the lesson of a revolution in naval warfare.

The achievement itself was marvelous. The U-boat came across more than two thousand miles of water, delivered a brief note to the German ambassador at Newport, then ducked and disappeared without even so much as taking on a bucket of water. It came fully armed with guns and torpedoes—a half dozen of them in full view as it floated on the surface.

Doubtless the note to Count von Bernstorff contained the information as to what it proposed to do, so as to prepare him to deal with the American government in the matter of any questions that might arise as the result of its activities. It was as if the U-53 crosed the ocean, bobbed up for a moment to extend its greetings to the American government and then disappeared to get busy with hostile commerce just outside the three-mile limit, and it lost no time about doing it. Six large freight steamers have gone to the bottom as the result of its single day's work, and we may hear, at any moment, of other and more serious destruction wrought by it.

Perhaps it was attended by a merchant submarine, such as the Deutschland, prepared to supply it with food and ammunition, as well as everything else needed.

But wonderful as was the performance, which is another of those remarkable achievements for which Germany has become famous during the progress of the war, the serious thing that concerns us is, not the fact itself, but what it means. In the early history of the war we regarded the development of the submarine as the foremost distinctive feature of modern warfare the contest had brought to life. The work of the submarine in and around the British Channel is a matter of familiar history. There followed the 4,000-mile trip of the German submarine through the Mediterranean and into the Dardanelles, where its first act was to sink a $12,000,000 battleship. Next the German merchant submarine lands at Baltimore with $1,000,00 cargo. Now the fully armed and equipped fighting submarine is almost within our very harbors destroying hostile commerce.

What Germany is doing to the commerce of these nations at our very doors, she, or any other nation could do to us were we at war. Against such an unseen enemy a $10,000,000 battleship is as nothing; it is snuffed out in a twinkling!

There lies the seriousness of this incident from our viewpoint, and it is a revolution in naval warfare that is but in the beginning. If we would be ready for any eventuality we must take hold now!

Inevitably the future naval power lies in the submarine!

GETTING THE FARMERS.

A current news dispatch gives some indication of the reason why the Canadian provinces on the northern and northwestern borders of the United States have been so successful in attracting farm settlers from some of our western states.

This dispatch from Edmonton, Alberta, tells of a remarkable wheat production record, as follows:

> O. S. Noble, of Nobleford, Alberta, has a thousand-acre field, the wheat crop of which, threshed, gave a yield of 52 bushels to the acre, the highest ever known in any part of the world, according to estimates made today.
> The world's record for wheat was formerly held by Whitman county, Washington, with 51 bushels.

This record merits world attention, and it will get it. With wheat at current prices, around $1.60 per bushel, this means a gross income of $83,200, or $83.20 per acre.

It was the combination of the man, the land and the climate that did it; and it is just such instances as this that are attracting some of the best of the farmers of the United States, in the hope that they can repeat the performance.

Georgia land and Georgia climate have done equally wonderful things, not in one, but in many instances; but have we taken the pains we should to let the world know about it?

The combination of man, land and climate has made even more than that, not in wheat, but other products, right here in our own state. And it has been done on a large acreage.

The Canadian provinces may have a good wheat climate, must have it, to make records such as this. But generally speaking, their agricultural climate cannot be compared to that of Georgia, where wheat may be made as a second crop on the same land, and where, in many sections, three crops are often grown in the twelve months.

Evidently, however, we are not sufficiently impressing these facts upon prospective farm settlers, for we are not getting them in anything like the numbers we should, while cold and icy Canada, with her wheat fields only, continues to draw.

Georgia has both the possibilities and the facilities, but there has been an evident laxity of effort in getting them in proper form before those to whom the state desires to present its appeal.

There is a field here for splendid work in behalf of the state, in which, unquestionably, organized effort would bring valuable results.

SOUTH'S BIGGEST PROBLEM.

In the Live Stock Exposition and Conference to be held in Orangeburg Wednesday and Thursday of this week, South Carolina is taking another long and forward step in the direction of solving the south's biggest and most important agricultural problem.

This exposition will be held under the auspices of the Orangeburg Chamber of Commerce and the Southern Settlement and Development Organization, which has taken recent prominent part in the constructive agricultural development of the greater portion of the south. It is in line with and similar to exhibitions of this kind recently held in Georgia and other southern states, in which were brought together showings of the best types of pure bred cattle and hogs, not only from the state itself, but from other sections where the best of high-class blooded stock is bred.

These cattle shows and conferences have attracted active and enterprising farmers from every section of the states in which they have been held, and that at Orangeburg this week will prove no exception.

Opportunity is afforded the farmers, not only to hear discussed the unquestioned advantages of cattle and hog breeding on the farm, but to see in the exposition itself the remarkable benefits which accrue to the agricultural industry, through careful and proper attention to this phase of it, and particularly through the breeding of the highest type and quality of cattle and hogs.

Conferences like this to be held at Orangeburg began in the south only a few years ago, and have already brought about a revolution in the cattle industry of this section through which, although it is as yet in its formative stage, very material advancement in agriculture has already been achieved.

On these occasions the farmers learn not only the advantages of prosecuting the cattle industry, and using to that end the best breeds, but they are carefully informed as to method and detail.

In the Orangeburg meeting there will be such demonstrations as that of the serum treatment for hog cholera, the dipping of cattle for ticks or Texas fever, the demonstration of new dairy machinery and methods, and practically every important feature that the industry, properly conducted, involves.

Expositions and conferences similar to that at Orangeburg this week should be held, not only in every southern state, but in every congressional district.

The closer the advantages of this industry are brought to the farmers of the south the more rapid and the more certain will be its developments. Unquestionably, in the building of the cattle industry lies the solution of the south's biggest and most important agricultural problem. Every step taken in that direction means the earlier advent of more and better prosperity.

S. Davies Warfield builded more wisely than he knew when he organized the Southern Settlement and Development Organization, which is doing so much to revolutionize conditions in the south. The fact that it has done so much in so short a while speaks most interestingly of its possibilities.

Latest Russian census demonstrates that the enemy press agents haven't killed off any of 'em, to speak of.

Candidate Hughes admits that he's an out-and-out office-seeker, but when it comes to stating what he would do with such a public trust he has to catch a train.

The Boston Transcript notes that "the American Indians are becoming more numerous." That being the case, they'll have a bigger celebration than ever of the Indian Summer the government left them.

Begins to look like Greece, and fighting Greece, once more.

At least Villa deserves credit for his ringworm-act of running around Mexico.

More men of the type of the lone Canadian who killed 23 men and took one prisoner would soon put an end to the war. But it is thought that he worked his imagination overtime.

When It Comes to Circus Day.

I.

When it comes to circus day you'll find me in my place,
With the old-time joy a-shinin' an' lightin' up my face;
An', ten to one, when the parade is windin' through the town
You'll find this old boy right in line, or folerin' the clown!

II.

When it comes to circus day I toss my troubles high—
Just send 'em in a hurricane a-whirlin' 'round the sky!
I'm younger than the youngest—gone back to boyhood's days,
An' the hurrah-feelin' hits me when the steam pianner plays!

III.

When it comes to circus day I'm close as close kin be
To the ring where something's doin', an' the clowns look good to me;
With the folks around me sayin' (for the world's there, with his wife!):
"Ain't that old feller havin' of the good time of his life!"

IV.

It just can't come too frequent—for time, with me, ain't long;
It always gits the old man right when things are running wrong;
Just take yer op'ry pieces an' let 'em go their ways,
For the hallelulia feelin' when the steam pianner plays!

On the Job Again.

George Bailey is on deck again in his Houston Post column, and here is one of his observations:

"A Fort Worth Rotarian says if there were a club of 1,000 Rotarians there the population of the town would be doubled within five years. We haven't noticed that the families of Houston Rotarians are any larger than those of other people."

His "New Verse."

Even the sweet singer of The Whitsett Courier has tackled the "New Verse." Hear him:

"The Spirits led me
To the October woods
By a snake-like path.
The leaves looked like
The red blankets of green lizards.
A horned toad hopped out of a hollow tree.
(There are toads that wear jewels in their heads,
But I saw them not.)
I followed the Spirits on and on;
Brave Spirits they were,
Of 100-proof.
O moonshine! Moonshine!"

Here's another boll weevil suggestion from The Charlotte News:

"General Bugg, the Austrian leader, should be requisitioned by this government to institute a drive against the marching boll weevil."

The Man at the Bat.

(To W. E. W.)

I.

You've sat by the hour and listened, no doubt,
To the prattle of people who planned
Great deeds to do, and at last you found out
That the player at the plate had fanned.
'Tis easy enough to talk of the game,
Or to gamble on this side or that,
But 'tis something else—the winning of fame—
It's up to the man at the bat!

II.

'Tis ever the same on the field of life,
Where'er you are called to play;
Whatever you meet in the way of strife,
Just put it out of the way.
The anxious crowd may cheer, you know,
And a score may depend on that;
But after all, lad, to make things go—
It's up to the man at the bat!

Dreams and Dollars.

I.

Singin' of October
And the gold it scatters 'round,
You better be a-diggin'
For the gold that's in the ground!
That's the right gold for the poor
When the wolf howls at the door.

II.

Dreamin' through October,—
Mighty fine it seems;
Can't live on silver sunshine
An' the gold that's in your dreams.
Only the clink of coin will do
When wolves of hunger follow you.

"It's All a Mistake," Says Hugh M. Dorsey, "I Will Not Make Addresses"

"It's all a mistake," said Governor-elect Hugh M. Dorsey yesterday, "about my appearing at different points to deliver addresses in the near future.

"I notice that the statement is being published from time to time that I am to speak here, there and elsewhere, but these reports are evidently based solely upon the invitations that have been sent to me.

"I am not going to speak anywhere in the near future. I have uniformly declined to accept any invitation, and having already done this in quite a number of instances I naturally could not accept a similar invitation now without giving just offense to those who have been good enough to invite me in the past and whose invitations I have had to decline in keeping with my announced policy not to make any public appearance in my capacity as the nominee for governor, or later, as the governor-elect. As I said before, any such quasi-official appearance at this time would be unjust to Governor Harris who, as governor of the state, is the man to represent it officially at all public functions so long as he is governor. When the time comes for me to appear officially I will not only be willing but glad to do so. In the meantime I am just a private citizen, giving attention to my business affairs and trying to get my matters in such a shape that the state may have every minute of my time and attention after I assume the responsibilities of the governorship.

"That my position in adopting this policy meets public approval there can be no doubt, for from all parts of the state it has been commended."

Georgia Cities Rally To Party's Standard With Big Donations

Savannah is leading the other cities of Georgia in the amount contributed to the democratic campaign fund, having contributed $2,100. Atlanta is second in the race, having contributed $446; Athens is third, with $342; Gainesville, fourth, with $250; Augusta, fifth, with $198; Macon, sixth, with $169, and Millen, seventh, with $137.50.

The figures were compiled by John D. Walker, chairman of the state democratic campaign committee, and represent the contributions to the fund up through last Saturday night. The total represents 76 towns, and amounts to $4,760.76.

The list: Atlanta $446, Traveling Men, Athens, $42; Athens $200, Albany $60, Americus $24, Abbeville $25, Arlington $28, Augusta $198, Brunswick $23.25, Bainbridge $50, Barnesville $7.50, Blackshear $10, Ball Ground $5, Boston $25, Claxton $15, Comer $25, Columbus $2, Carrs $4, Cumming $1, Covington $25, Cartersville $3, Commerce $63, Dallas $5, Dacula $1, Devereaux $2.50, Decatur $5, Dawsonville $4, Darien $1.50, Douglas $50, Douglasville $20, Elberton $2, Fitzgerald $5, Gainesville $250, Greensboro $27, Gray $5, Griffin $2, Hawkinsville $22.50, Lithonia $35, Lumpkin $13.25, Macon $169, Meigs $70, Meda $1, Manchester $7, Millen $130.50, Montezuma $26, Milledgeville $5, McRae $9, Newnan $3, Norwood $1, Newnez $1, Oxford $1, Parksville $10, Poulan $5, Rockmart $46.56, Rome $30, Savannah $2,100, Sparta $50, Senoia $32, Social Circle $1, Shiloah $1, Statesboro $10, Tate $2, Toccoa $30, Thomson $67.50, Tifton $42.50, Tallapoosa $20, Vienna $20, Valdosta $4, Waco $2, Wadley $2, Washington $1, Warrenton $11, West Point $1, Winder $1, Zebulon $13.25. Total $4,760.76.

Monday Mitchell county contributed to the national democratic campaign committee $52, after having previously sent $48, altogether making a total of $100 which this county has given.

The list of those who contributed the $52 is as follows:

Isaac A. Bush $10, H. H. Perry $1, E. D. Black $1, E. M. Davis $5, R. B. Wingate 50c, A. B. Hurst $1, O. J. Culpepper $1, M. C. Bennet $1, J. P. McRee $5, T. I. McNeil $5, E. T. Newson $1, A. H. Jones $1, G. B. Baggs $1, J. B. Akridge $2, E. L. Whitworth $1, L. M. Shiver 50c, J. M. Mayo, Jr., $1, Charles E. Watt, Jr., $1, F. S. Perry $1, G. E. West $1, W. E. Holton $1, Roy Stripling $1, G. Georgia women are helping to swell the fund. Mrs. Emma T. Martin, chairman of the women's campaign for contributions, who may be seen at the campaign headquarters at 316 Empire building, reports the following contributions:

Cash $5, George A. Campbell $1, P. H. Mell $1, William Welch $1, Logan T. Williams $1, Miss Gladys Bonnell $1, Mrs. M. T. Scott $1, A. J. Stovall $1, cash $5. Total $17. Previously acknowledged $135.50. Total to date $152.50.

Conservative Negro Writes on Movement Of Race Northward

Editor Constitution: There is taking place a condition in our southland which bids fair to assume alarming proportions and it calls for the immediate and earnest attention of all who have the welfare of the south at heart. The negro people who furnish the bulk of the common labor of the south are leaving by thousanus for the industrial centers of the north. There has all the the while been a slower movement of this kind towaru the nortnern states and Canada, but lately the migration is proceeding upon a scope so vast as to cause the keenest anxiety on the part of southern captains of labor.

Various communities are passing stringent laws with the view of making the business of labor agents either impracticai or impossible. I unuerstand that communities in Alabama have passed such laws. But this will ultimately have the very opposite effect of what was intended by such force legislation. I am a negro and know the deeper thoughts and feelings of my own people. I know their yearnings and the religious zeal with which they look forward to the future for better days and to other climes than this for better conditions. And so deeply do the most of them desire to get away from the south where they really can fare better economically, that the merest hint dropped in a seemingly quiet community that colored laborers are wanted and needed and well paid and well treated in some far northern center is all that is necessary to send hundreds to the train with barely funds to pay for transportation.

No, to pass severe laws hoping to block this movement will not only be a waste of time but the most unwise way of dealing with the problem. Nothing short of the conscript in the way of laws will serve any purpose at all and the conscript is unconstitutional in America except in military exigencies. The problem cannot be handled from the angle of force. The negrro must be made to see, made to feel, that, on the whole, it will be better for him to remain in the south than to migrate to the north.

I was born and reared in the south; at the same time I have lived for several years in the north and I do not think I overestimate when I say that I am a competent judge of which section is really best for our people. The northern winters are rather severe on our tropical blood. From a climatic standpoint the south has the advantage. In the north the sharp competition of union labor has heretofore pushed the negro to the rear. The south has heretofore had the advantage in this. But when we go before our people with arguments like these, they fly back like children to one simple fact and cling tenaciously to that, namely, that in the north they have protection and in the south they have not. Nor could Booker T. Washington or even God, Himself, move them away from that. The negroes will brave the frigid snows of the north, court tuberculosis and die like flies in fire where they really have actual legal protection rather than remain here where they could accomplish more and accumulate more but where they feel their lives are constantly in danger by reason of being denied the full protection of the law.

This movement will continue through the years until the south has been all but stripped of her most valuable asset in the way of labor. What the men of the south need to do (if I may humbly suggest) is to impress our people that they are as legally safe in the south as they are in the north. The matter of greater personal freedom and less racial pejudice may always throw the balance of attraction in favor of the north, but this is a far too weak attraction to send so many of us away from the south as are now leaving.

Stop lynching! See that we get a little better brand of justice than the kind we have been taught to expect. Teach us to love the south and be contented here by ceasing to abridge us to such extremes in common rights and citizenship. If we must have jimcrow laws, let them seem to be more equitably administered. Let colored people ride in railway cars and elevators alotted to colored people and white people the same. If we must have laws of segregation, let them be administered in ways that do not merely seem to humiliate the black folks alone. And when it comes to courts and law, see that justice is meted out to white and black the same. In hundreds of northern communities that is almost the fact. White and black are treated almost precisely alike. They have separate churches, schools and social intercourse just as they do here. The colored people of New York city are race loyal and race conscious just as they are in Atlanta, Ga. But when white and black go into the courts of the north they all look alike to those judges up there. That's why the negroes are so crazy about the north—nothing else. That's why they are leaving the south by the thousands.

The Unknowing.

Some people look upon this life
As full of troubles, terrors, strife;
And never know that beauty lies
In everything beneath the skies.

They pass through verdant fields of green,
Yet never know there can be seen,
In days to come, the golden grain,
The fruit of sunshine, culture, rain.

They cross the highest mountain chain,
Where snow is master of the rain;
Yet fail to hear the snowbird's song;
They're out of tune—their hearts are wrong.

They sail that wide, expanseless sea,
That borders on Eternity.
Their thoughts are turned away from earth;
They never learn the sterling worth
Of mortal things in mortal strife—
Of love and laughter—joys of life;
They never know that beauty lies
In everything beneath the skies.

MAYOR WOODWARD NAILS LIBEL CIRCULATED AGAINST ATLANTA BY MARYLAND WHISKY LEADERS

Mayor Woodward has addressed a letter to officals in the cities of Baltimore, Cumberland (Md.), Philadelphia and other cities replying to inquiries received by him in the last few days relative to the advertisement circulated in the fight against prohibition now being waged in Maryland and Baltimore. The mayor's letters are identical in every particular, the only difference being in the address.

He takes up the different items in the advertisement in quistion which purports to show the derogatory effect of prohibition on Atlanta and the state generally. The advertisement has been answered by prominent men of Atlanta recently following a request from prohibition leaders in the fight.

Mayor Woodward's letter denies every statement given in the advertisement taking them up in detail. He states: "I desire to say most emphatically that the advertisement as it reads is an infamous libel on Atlanta."

He states that the reference to the school system is untrue since every child who has applied has been given a seat. He denies that Grady hospital is inadequate for the needs of the city and declares that so far as he is informed the management of the hospital is taking care of every applicant.

The street paving, he asserts, will compare favorably with many other cities and that much permanent paving has been laid this year. He points out that the income from the different sources is always slow during the summer but that every payroll has been met promptly and that current bills are being met. There being no way to force payment of city taxes earlier than October 15, the city, like any other corporation, has to wait for its money.

"All absolutely necessary expenses have been met and we are now even paying back vouchers and also the borrowed money allowed by the charter, and in the next twenty or thirty days we will be in very good shape on our natural income for the year," declares the letter.

He asserts that the question of the city going into bankruptcy is a matter of impossibility. That as far as the prohibition legislation is concerned, the recent act of the past year has deprived the city of only about $60,000 in revenue out of $5,000,000 annual income.

The Letter.

The letter follows in full:

Mr. Harry G. Fisher, Keyser, Md.: Your letter regarding an advertisement that is being circulated in the city of Keyser in the interest of anti-prohibition received.

I desire to say most emphatically that the advertisement as it reads is an infamous libel on Atlanta.

As far as the school proposition is concerned, we have a larger enrollment this year than in any year previous, and every child that has made application has been given a seat. Therefore, that settles the school question.

Our hospital is one of the best in the country, and while it has been crowded for the past two or three years, and we have built an annex to it in the last few years, yet, on account of the growth of the city it needs enlarging again, but the management is taking care of all applicants so far as I know.

As far as the streets being in woeful repair, I will state that the streets of the city now will bear very good comparison with any future years. There is always more or less repair work to be done on streets. Besides, this we have laid permanent paving on several streets this year.

Under the charter we are allowed to borrow only $400,000, and from the fact that there were a great many improvements of different characters passed up during the early part of the year, and contracts entered into, it necessarily run our finances a little short until tax collections could come in. You will understand at this time, that while our taxes are paid in three different instalments during the year, there is nothing compulsory upon any payment until after the 15th of October, therefore the city, like any other business enterprise, is dependent entirely upon the people volunteering to pay their taxes before the 15th of October. After that date we can force collection.

From the reasons alluded to above, we are a little short of money during the dead months of July and August, but all of our payrolls and salaries have been paid on time. I presume there is not a city in the country but what has unpaid bills that have to go through the natural procedure of verifying and placing properly in voucher form.

While it is true, for the reason as I stated above, the early contracts for so much work were passed up in excess of the money liable to be received during that period, we have been a little bit slow in paying them for the past couple of months. All absolutely necessary expenses have been promptly met, and we are now even paying back vouchers and also the borrowed money allowed by charter, and in the next twenty or thirty days we will be in very good shape on our natural income for the year.

Bankruptcy an Impossibility.

The question of bankruptcy for Atlanta is a matter of impossibility. If there are any illegal debts made or debts contracted for that cannot be paid out of the revenues of the city during the present year, they are null and void so far as the city of Atlanta is concerned, and the mayor and general council voting and approving same would be individually liable; so you can readily see that so far as the credit of the city of Atlanta is concerned it is A-Number One and cannot be impaired for any reason whatever.

You have my permission to print this letter as widely as the advertisement is published, as I do not care, nor will I permit a libel of that character to go unanswered.

As far as the prohibition question is concerned in Georgia, the first act was passed in 1907 and has been in force up to May this year and the act that was passed in May of this year deprived Atlanta of only about $60,000 a year revenue, so you can very readily see that that amount of money did not interfere with the city receiving revenue of nearly $5,000,000 a year. So, real prohibition in this state has not been enforced long enough to say it will do any harm at all from a financial standpoint. Very respectfully,

J. G. WOODWARD, Mayor.

Atlanta, Ga., October 9.

LAND SHOW, ENLARGING SCOPE, TO TAKE IN WHOLE SOUTHEAST

"The land show proposition is the biggest thing Georgia has undertaken for many years," said W. W. Croxton, general passenger agent for the A., B. & A. R. R., addressing the special meeting held yesterday afternoon in the offices of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, for the purpose of perfecting details of the land show. By unanimous vote, the scope of the land show was extended so as to make it more than a Georgia enterprise, and it will embrace at least the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida and South Carolina.

After considerable discussion, it was decided to adopt the name "Southeastern Land Show," provided the management of the Southeastern fair had no objection. It was argued that the use of the name "southeastern" would advertise the fair and would not be in any way detrimental to the enterprise, and that it would accentuate the idea of Georgia being the center of the southeast from a business and other standpoint. This idea was voiced by H. G. Hastings and Wilmer L. Moore.

Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of the Georgia School of Technology, expressed it as his opinion that the land show idea would mean a great deal to the southeast, and that it was a project long needed and would certainly be successful if properly organized.

To Appoint Committee.

President C. J. Haden, of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, opened the meeting and called upon Secretary-Manager E. Y. Clarke to explain to the meeting the nature of the land show and the progress the proposition had made up to this time. At the conclusion of Mr. Clarke's remarks St. Elmo Massengale addressed the meeting, telling of the remarkable success of the Chicago land show, and stated that while he did not know anything in regard to the details of the land show organization, he was quite sure that it would be a wonderful benefit to the state. He approved the adoption of the name, "Southeastern Land Show," rather than other names which have been suggested.

Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Southern States Life Insurance company, moved that there be appointed a committee of five on organization, which committee would suggest officers and an executive committee and draft plans for the incorporation of the land show. President Charles J. Haden announced that he would appoint the committee some time Tuesday.

H. M. Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor, expressed approval of the land show and offered the services of his department in any way consistent with his duties to the state.

J. H. Atchison, of the Southern Bell Telephone company, who is also a prominent ad man and editor of "Pepper," spoke in enthusiastic terms in regard to the land show, and stated he believed it would be a great success.

Plans Outlined.

Robert F. Shedden, general agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, was present and took part in the general discussion, outlining a number of detail plans for the successful handling of the event. His ideas were heartily approved by those at the meeting and will be carried out as soon as permanent organization is perfected.

The land show proposition has assumed much larger proportions than any of those connected with the first suggestion anticipated. Frank T. Reynolds, who was the originator of the idea to hold a land show in Georgia at the present time, acted as secretary of the meeting and spoke interestingly, telling that at one land show where Georgia had an exhibit several years ago, 14,000 people signed cards requesting more information about the state.

Mr. Haden calls attention to the vital necessity of the securing of more farmers for the state, especially that type who would grow other crops than cotton. The menace of the boll weevil was touched on slightly by Mr. Haden as another reason why the land show should be operated.

H. G. Hastings stated that he believed the land show would have a double effect in that it would bring people from outside the state and outside the south to consider the value of our lands, and that it would influence the people of Georgia and surrounding states in the matter of growing crops other than cotton.

SPECIAL TRAINS BRINGING EXHIBITS OF REGISTERED CATTLE TO BIG FAIR

Special trains from as far west as Kansas City are scheduled to leave today for Atlanta, bringing great herds of thoroughbred cattle and hogs for the Southeastern fair.

When the American Royal Live Stock show from Kansas City gets under way, it will be the largest movement of cattle ever started from halfway across the continent to Atlanta. There will be eighty cars of the west's finest stock, including every breed. Four trains will be started from the show grounds there direct to Atlanta.

From another western point—Omaha—thirty cars of thoroughbred hogs, which were exhibited at the swine show there, will be journeying to Atlanta, with owners following on passenger trains. The hogs will comprise the west's exhibit at the Southeastern fair.

These are the two largest movements from any point. There will be many cars of live stock, including the Grand Circuit trotters, and hundreds of coops of chickens from practically every noted poultry farm on their journey to Atlanta by tomorrow evening.

The live stock will be unloaded at Lakewood, a short distance from the fair grounds. The prize bulls and cows and fast and fancy horses will be led to the grounds and given stalls in the mammoth pavilions and stables awaiting their reception. With every herd of cattle will come several attendants, and with the race horses a corps of valets to see that this society of the live stock world has every comfort and convenience.

Many Exhibits Here.

Nearly every freight train reaching Atlanta now brings consignments of prize agricultural products from points in the seven southeastern states. Within the next two days the special trains from important points will begin to arrive. By Friday night the season's choicest products will be artistically displayed in draped booths of the Agricultural building. Some few of the early arrivals are already here. The building will be swarming with workmen arranging cotton, corn, potatoes, pumpkins, vegetables of all varieties and fruits of all kinds, to show off to the best advantage.

Advance men of the Old Dominion shows, the carnival attractions of Larkland, are expected here today. They will measure off the space allotted to the score of shows and assign each attraction to a location. The tents will be pitched on a high hill just in the rear of the concrete grandstand, and at the head of the midway. It will be a tented city, made conspicuous by brilliantly painted and illuminated fronts. The attractions will follow the latter part of the week and will be set up by Saturday.

Model Cottage Completed.

The erection of the Model Cottage, one of the unique features of the woman's department, having been completed, the installation of furnishings will begin tomorrow. The home will be furnished from front room to kitchen. The cottage is conveniently arranged, with sufficient number of spacious rooms to accommodate the average-size family. It is intended as an illustration of what may be done by the farmer of moderate means to provide his family with the comforts of life. Every modern convenience that may be adopted to the rural districts will be installed.

The lecture tent, beneath which noted speakers will discuss subjects of interest to the farmer and the public generally, has been erected. The mammoth tent for the automobile show is being erected. Concession stands are going up all over the grounds. The Atlanta automobile agents who have engaged space will bed their models out the latter part of the week after having arranged booths to display the cars and accessories. The management has had several requests for space in the auto show, but every foot is engaged.

By the time the crowds attending the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers' convention and those here for the circus get out of the city there will be another influx of visitors coming for the fair.

STATIONERS DOWN TO BUSINESS TODAY

Monday Devoted Largely to Handshaking and Jollification—Many Prominent Delegates From All Over Country Here.

Stationers from every part of the country, both manufacturers, jobbers and retailers, descended upon Atlanta in force yesterday for the twelfth annual convention of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers. Which goes to show, among other things, that the stationers of our land are not always stationary. They swarmed through the lobby of the Piedmont Monday morning as thick as locusts, or as children on the sidewalk to see a circus parade—to use a more topical simile.

The local stationers, all of whom are past masters of the royal order of handshakers, were on hand before breakfast to get the early birds as they alighted from their Pullmans. John Aldredge, chairman of the reception and entertainment committee, ably assisted by Ivan Allen, president of the local stationers' club; John M. Cooper, chairman of the hotel committee, and N. H. Saltzman went into the business of greeting everybody in a manner that would have done credit to Fred Houser, the original greeter. All morning long they kept up their handshaking, until the last one of five hundred delegates had assembled.

Well-Known Men Here.

Some of the best known men in the trade are present at the convention, all brimming over with optimism at the prospects for business for the coming year. L. E. Waterman, famous pen man; R. B. Carter, the man who made Mr. and Mrs. Carter's Ink known wherever the Saturday Evening Post is read; Eberhardt Faber, known to all the draughtsmen and most of the school children of our land—these and many others of equal reputation circulated among their friends in the great host who elbowed each other through the Piedmont parlors and out upon the sidewalk.

The local ladies were no less active than their spouses in receiving and making the new arrivals feel at home. Many of the visitors were accompanied by their better halves, who made a most charming and colorful addition to the scene in the neighborhood of headquarters. Mrs. John Aldredge, chairman of the reception committee, was assisted by a large number of local stationers' wives in welcoming the newcomers, and in passing out assignments, theater tickets, and other interesting information which foretold a round of gaiety ahead.

Ready for Business Today.

The main business of the delegates yesterday was getting settled and ready for business which will begin in earnest today. There were a number of committee meetings and other preliminaries, most important of which were meetings of the national catalog commission and the manufacturers' conference committee in the mornings, and the board of control in the afternoon. The latter is the principal body of the organization, including President Charles N. Bellman, and other high officials of the organization. President Bellman reported that the main object of his administration had been the sentiment embodied in the charter of the organization, namely, to create and foster a permanent feeling of friendship and fraternity between the manufacturers and dealers in stationers' goods throughout the United States; and he was happy to report that many matters of dispute had been cleared up between them.

John Aldredge gathered together an assortment of golf fanatics the first thing in the morning and hurried them out to the Capital City Country club, where they had luncheon and looked over the golf links preparatory to the opening of the golf tournament today. This has been the main concern of Mr. Aldredge ever since the convention was secured for Atlanta, and he is now in his element. A number of devotees have developed, ranging from extra fancy to the opposite extreme, and they were loud in their praise of the Brookhaven course.

The evening was devoted to the traveling men's night entertainment, concocted and served by Jack Lewis, the local celebrity.

Tuesday's Program.

Today's program is as follows:

Tuesday, October 10, 1916.

9:00 A. M.—Meeting of registration committee in lobby of Piedmont hotel for those who did not register on Monday.

9:30 A. M.—First session of the convention in Ansley hotel convention hall, eleventh floor. Invocation. Singing of "America." Address of welcome. President's report. Secretary's report. Treasurer's report. Auditor's report. National catalog commission report. Report of national councillor to Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America. Appointment of nominating committee. Appointment of budget committee.

12:30 P. M.—Luncheon, Ansley hotel.

1:30 P. M.—Second session of convention. Address by Hon. Edward N. Hurley, chairman federal trade commission. Address on "Banks and Forms Used in the Conduct of the Stationery Business," W. D. Pittman, secretary of national catalog commission. Report of committees and discussions.

Dance This Evening.

Tuesday evening is open and the delegates are free to do whatever they please. A number will visit the circus, and others will attend a dance that is being arranged in their honor at the Ansley hotel.

A total of 277 delegates and 110 women registered at the booth in the Piedmont hotel lobby Monday. They are from all parts of the United States.

During the afternoon a number of the delegates visited the East Lake Country club, and played a round of golf over the links.

On Thursday at noon the delegates will be entertained at a "Georgia barbecue" at the Druid Hills Golf club.

The officers of the national association are as follows:

Charles N. Bellman, president, Toledo, Ohio; Edward E. Huber, first vice president, Brooklyn, N. Y. Charles H. Crocker, second vice president, San Francisco, Cal. Lansing G. Westmore, third vice president, Rochester, N. Y. Harry A. Prizer, treasurer, Philadelphia, Pa. Henry W. Rogers, auditor, New York, N. Y. Mortimer W. Byers, secretary, New York, N. Y.

Much credit must be given the Atlanta Stationer's club for landing the national convention for this city. The officers and members of this club are as follows:

Officers: Ivan E. Allen, president, Fielder & Allen company; N. H. Saltzman, vice president, the Hirshberg company; John M. Cooper, secretary and treasurer, Foote & Davies company.

Members: Baylis Office quipment company, 1 South Broad street; Columbian Book Store, 81 Whitehall street; Fielder & Allen company, 44 Marietta street; Foote & Davies company, corner Edgewood avenue and Pryor street; the Hirshberg company, 13 Nelson street; Lester Book and Stationery company, 70 North Broad street; Millers' Book Store, 64 North Broad street; Pass-Stewart company, 97 South Forsyth street; S. P. Richards company, 90 Central avenue; Southern Book Concern, 71 Whitehall street; Montag Brothers, 10 Nelson street; Whitaker Paper company, Atlanta Joint Terminals; Joseph Dixon Crucible company, 328 Peachtree street; Dennison Manufacturing company, Fourth National Bank building; Louisville Paper company, Empire building; Dunbar & Sewell, 121 South Forsyth street; Ault & Wilborg company, 127 Central avenue; Diem & Wing company, Hurt building.

A unique ceremony will be introduced this morning before the chairman calls the organization to order. The local Stationers' club have had a gavel made especially for this event, from the wood of twelve different trees grown in Fulton county, and Ivan E. Allen, president of the Atlanta Stationers' club, will present it to Charles N. Bellman, president of the national association, so that the meeting may be called to order in proper fashion.

At this first session of the convention, the invocation will be by the Rev. Dr. W. W. Memminger, of All Saints church, after which the delegates will join in singing "America." L. D. Hicks, of The Ruralist Press, will give the address of welcome on behalf of Atlanta.

The second session will be rendered notable by an address by Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the federal trade commission. Mr. Hurley's broad graps of national commercial affairs and his close touch with present tendencies, both governmental and on the outside, will make his speech of wide significance. He will be followed by W. D. Pittman, secretary of the National Catalogue commission, who will speak on "Blanks and Forms Used in the Conduct of the Stationery Business." After the transaction of further routine business, the meeting will adjourn.

At odd intervals between times, there will be various diversions in the line of entertainment. John Aldredge's golf tournament will get under way, the medal play beginning early in the morning, or as soon thereafter as best suits the convenience of the participants. Handicaps will apply to the medal play. Two handsome trophies will be awarded for the lowest and next lowest scores, the former presented by Eberhardt Faber, and the latter by the Irving-Pitt company. The contestant who works the most and makes the largest score, will be suitably rewarded with a trophy donated by the Atlanta Stationers' club.

The ladies will attend the matinee at the Forsyth, while the gentlemen are engrossed in their afternoon session. In the evening there will be a dance at the Hotel Ansley for all who care to attend.

To Attend Theater.

Delegates and their wives of the Stationers' convention will attend the performance of "Watch Your Step" at the Atlanta theater tonight, and they, with the local crowd, will doubtless pack the fine house. The show has been winning all kinds of praise. Here is what a Richmond critic said of it:

"Froth and frivolity, mirth and melody, pretty stage pictures and prettier girls, dancing men and prancing men; in short, everything required combine to make up the merry concoction called 'Watch Your Step,' which is now playing at the Academy. Not strictly of the 'revue' type of entertainment, in that no attempt is made to burlesque successes of the legitimate stage, 'Watch Your Step' is a production which it would be difficult for the dramatic student to classify, nor would he yearn to do so, after giving himself up to its visual and vocal appeal. Doubtless there are those who will maintain—not without justification—that an entire evening of Irving Berlin music is a little too much like a breakfast of fried apples, but the Berlin melodies, many of them old favorites long before they reached us in their original settings, are happily interspersed with sparkling Harry B. Smith dialogue and a number of colorful scenes, the background for such an assemblage of dance steps that one becomes well nigh dizzy watching them. Moreover, the cast, while it offers no star of particular brilliancy, includes not a few satisfactory entertainers, barring their vocal shortcomings. Belle Rutland is so winsome that almost any masculine spectator would have been delighted to have obeyed her injunction to 'Lead Me to Love.' There is a dash and verve about Paula Sherman that covers a musical deficiency and her confession that she 'Loves to Have the Boys Around' her is easily understandable. Jack Coogan is a marvelous dancer, with leg joints at hand in any direction he seems to wish. Most of the fun is provided by Harry von Fossen, in three different black-face make-ups and a line of patter kept down-to-the-minute. Gratifying to relate, the chorus girl, at least a majority of them, are really pretty, and there are a number of old musical favorites, like 'Settle Down in a One-Horse Town' and 'The Syncopated Walk,' which are accorded hearty welcome."

A social event of the convention that proved an enjoyable occasion for the delegates and their wives was the ball last night at the Piedmont hotel. Over 500 people attended and the large dining room of the hotel was taxed to hold the crowd. A series of social events have been planned for the short stay of the visitors here but the ball last night will probably eclipse anything that will be given them during the rest of their visit here.

The will of the late Henry Karwisch, retired capitalist, was probated in common form before the ordinary yesterday morning, disposing of an estate valued in the vicinity of $200,000.

The beneficiaries are the three children, John M. Karwisch, B. M. Karwisch and Miss Annie Karwisch, the latter receiving the Karwisch home place in Kirkwood avenue, with all household furnishings. A 21-acre tract on Roswell road was bequeathed to John M. Karwisch, and the Karwisch properties at 96 Love street were willed to B. M. Karwisch.

John M. and Miss Annie Karwisch qualified as executor and executrix of the estate.

ATHENS EXPERIENCES DAY OF ACCIDENTS

Athens, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—Saturday was a day of unusual automobile accidents in this city and vicinity. In the early morning a machine coming from Winder, where crowds had attended the county fair, plunged over a 25-foot embankment near Mitchell's bridge, turned over twice, threw out the occupants, Evans Gregory, of Athens, and Marvin Anthony, driver of the car; J. G. Fields and J. H. Sword, all of Arnoldsville, all four being injured. Gregory was seriously hurt; Fields had a shoulder dislocated and collar bone broken; the others were less seriously hurt. One was thrown into a tree and another into a branch.

Little Bessie Bradberry, age 7, here with a big auto party of school children from Bogart, fell out of the car in which nine children were going home this morning, the car being driven by her father, and was not missed till the machine had gone some distance. The little girl was not hurt, except for a bruise or two, and was picked up by one of the cars in the line following.

Hugh Hodgson, driving a heavy touring car, on Lumpkin street, accidentally knocked down a youth, Bebe Arnold, dragged him some distance and the wheels of the car passed over him, the boy declares, over his arm and neck. Beyond bruises and loss of breath he was not seriously hurt.

Charlton Fair Opens.

Waycross, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) Today the Charlton county fair opened to last through October 11. Exhibits from the Charlton fair will be taken to other fairs this month.

Young Wife Asks Constitution to Help Find Missing Husband

Despondent because his wages were so small that his wife was compelled to work in order to keep the wolf away from the door, John Polk, age 19, disappeared September 9, after writing his wife a letter telling her he was going out of the city to look for work.

"I cannot bear you having to work, and I am going to find a job that will pay me enough so that you will not have to work. It hurts me to leave you, but everything will turn out right," he wrote in the last letter his wife received from him. The letter came two days after he disappeared.

JOHN POLK.

And now his wife and people are afraid that he has met with foul play somewhere. They believe that he probably went to Chattanooga in his search for work. That he has not written seems to mean to his grief-stricken wife that he is dead. For Polk was a model young man, and his wife is sure he would have written before this unless something was the matter.

The family have appealed to The Constitution and the police to help them locate the young man. Messages have been sent to many neighboring towns in an effort to locate Polk.

John Polk was a plumber by trade, but because of a lull in his business was working at the Block Candy company at the time of his disappearance.

PICTURES FOR FAIR EXHIBITS MUST BE PRESENTED TODAY

The Atlanta artists who wish to exhibit at the Southeastern fair under the auspices of the Atlanta Art association are requested to send their work to the Ponce de Leon apartments, corner Ponce de Leon and Peachtree, not later than noon today.

COLUMBUS OBSERVES FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Columbus, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) National Fire and Accident Prevention day was observed in Columbus in a striking manner. Committees of business men made the rounds posting appropriate placards on store fronts and factory walls. All the whistles blew at noon and the fire department equipment paraded. The chamber of commerce gave a luncheon at which fire prevention was the theme. Among the speakers were A. M. Schoen and Joel Hunter, both of Atlanta.

Dean of Fountain Pen Attending Convention

Prominent among the visitors to the 1916 annual convention of the stationery manufacturers being held in the Piedmont hotel is L. E. Waterman, dean of fountain pen manufacturers in the United States, whose output, the Waterman Ideal fountain pen, is known wherever men write.

When Mr. Waterman entered the Piedmont hotel yesterday morning he immediately was besieged upon every hand by friends and admirers—local men and stationers who, like himself, were convention visitors. Chief among the Atlantans greeting him were Ivan E. Allen, head of the local stationers' organization, and Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta Convention bureau, who was instrumental in bringing the convention to this city.

For almost an hour Mr. Waterman was the center of a group of friends, and when he was finally able to "break away," both arms were almost useless due to fatigue caused by the great demands made upon them in shaking the hands of those who would greet him.

Speer Must Conduct Hearing of Famous Coffee County Case

Macon, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—In the United States district court, which convened heer today, Judge W. W. Lambdin declined to assign the famous Coffee county liquor case for trial, taking the position that the litigation had been begun before Judge Speer and should be handled by him.

The case has been pending for several months, liquor to the value of $39,000 having been seized in Coffee county by the sheriff, it having been consigned as household goods.

Judge Speer took jurisdiction of the case because it was an interstate shipment, and ordered that the whisky be brought to Macon and stored. It is now being kept under a day and night guard at an expense of six dollars a day, to say nothing of the storage charges. It is said the expense has already reached $1,500.

Judge Speer will not return before the latter part of November, and the whisky must remain in storage here until then.

KLUTZ IS LODGED IN WAYCROSS JAIL

Waycross, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) Charles Klutz, under indictment here on charges of embezzling various sums from the Waycross Furniture company, arrested in Chicago ten days ago, is now in the county jail. He resisted requisition papers sent from Georgia, but the Ware county officer brought the man here.

Klutz probably will be tried at the December term of superior court. The indictments against him were issued in 1913.

RELIEVE HEADACHES WITHOUT DOSING

By Applying Sloan's Liniment to Forehead You Can Stop the Severe Pains.

Many headaches are of a neuralgic origin. The symptoms of such headaches are intense and lingering pains in the brow, temples or back of the head.

There is one certain relief that has been known and recommended for years back, Sloan's Liniment. One application and the dull pain is practically gone. It is easily applied without rubbing. Rubbing is unnecessary, as Sloan's Liniment quickly penetrates to the seat of trouble.

Aching muscles, rheumatism, bruises, lumbago, chilblains, sprains and stiff neck can also be most effectively treated with Sloan's Liniment. Cleaner than mussy plasters or ointments; it does not stain the skin or clog the pores.

At all drug stores, 25c., 50c., $1.00.

MAN SUES DOCTOR FOR $25,000 AFTER ARM IS AMPUTATED

Americus, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) A damage suit of $25,000 by Henry Grady Royal against Dr. L. G. Stewart, both of Ellaville, is featuring the Schley superior court at Ellaville, which began today. Royal alleges unskilled medical treatment to an injured arm while fourteen years of age, which necessitated an amputation later. The suit was brought in October, 1915, after Royal reached his maturity.

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.—(adv.)

Boston, October 9.—Breaking world's series records and tearing traditions to shreds, the Boston Americans defeated the Brooklyn Nationals by a score of 2 to 1 in a 14-inning game here this afternoon. It was the second contest for the championship and was decided only after a struggle that surpassed in situations any ever evolved in the fertile mind of a baseball fiction writer.

For more than two hours the teams, pennant-winners in their respective leagues, battled with almost superhuman skill and courage through a one-run tie. Then, with the stage set as if for the thrilling climax, a pinch hitter and a pinch runner won victory for the Red Sox just as twilight threw its mantle of semi-darkness over Braves' field.

Of the heroes who arose from the playing field as did the warriors from the Dragon's teeth sown by Jason in tales of Greek mythology, Delos Gainor, of Elkins, W. Va., was the star of stars. It was his single in the gathering darkness of the final inning that scored from second base Michael McNally, of Minooka, Pa., running for Hoblitzell, with the tally that won the second straight victory for the Carriganites over the champions of the senior league.

SENSATIONAL HOMER STARTED STELLAR PLAYS.

The contest opened with a sensational home run by "Hy" Myers in the initial inning and not for a moment afterward did the struggle halt or lose interest for the forty-odd thousand fans who hung on every play with intensity equal to that of the members of the two teams battling for fame and financial rewards. For a short space of time the lone run scored by Myers appeared to be the margin that might give Brooklyn an even break in the series. In the third inning, however, Scott tripled to center and scored the tying run when Cutshaw juggled Ruth's tap, and had time only to make the play at first base.

From that point the Red Sox and Superbas grappled in a baseball battle that rolled through eleven periods of play without the slightest advantage for either club, while diamond deeds of amazing daring and skill held the spectators enthralled. Sizzling hits, wonderful catches, scintillating throws and the keenest of baseball generalship, succeeded each other so rapidly that those preceding were forgotten in the stunning brilliancy of later events.

Thus it came about that, with gray shadows creeping down over the stands to the field, the Boston players made their last stand at the plate. Sherrod Smith, Brooklyn's southpaw, who had fought a splendid twirling duel against Carrigan's left-handed star, "Babe" Ruth, faltered for an instant with Hoblitzell at the bat. He could not locate the plate in the twilight and passed "Hobby." Lewis moved his clubmate to second with an infield sacrifice.

Here the Red Sox manager showed his baseball acumen by sending McNally in to run for Hoblitzell, and taking Gainor from the bench to bat for Gardner. Gainor set himself for his effort and slashed a line drive between short and third, which came to Wheat on the second bound. The latter, playing in deep left, whipped the ball toward the plate with every atom of his strength, but McNally had sprinted with the crack of the bat and slid home with the winning run before Catcher Miller could clutch the flying sphere.

DODGERS BELIEVE LUCK WILL CHANGE AT HOME.

As a result of Gainor's hit the Boston team left for Brooklyn tonight with two of the necessary four victories to their credit, and will renew tomorrow at Ebbets field the struggle for further honors. Almost simultaneously the Brooklyn players departed for their home grounds confident that their fortunes will change once they are back upon familiar fields, and bearing with them the admiration of every spectator who witnessed their desperate battle against what is conceded to be one of the greatest baseball machines of modern times.

Brooklyn, in the role of vanquished, garnered almost as much praise and honor as the triumphant Red Sox. Their fighting spirit will go down as one of the most remarkable in the annals of the game. In holding the Carrigan clan for fourteen innings before admitting defeat they established a new record for world's series play, eclipsing the 3 to 3 thirteen-inning tie game played by the Chicago Nationals and the Detroit Americans in 1907.

No finer setting for a baseball battle of this record-breaking type could have been conjured by the cleverest mind of a stage director. Braves field, the largest baseball stadium in the country, was filled with a gathering which fell less than a thousand below the record for a championship throng. Bleachers and grandstands were filled almost to capacity and in contrast to the opening game the spectators, thrilled with the tenseness of the contest, rooted without cessation through the entire two hours and thirty-two minutes of play. Once the character of the contest had gripped them, men, women and boys, aided by bands and improvised noise-producers, raised a din that rattled the windows of the staid Back Bay homes and made it impossible to hear the umpire's decisions.

So great was the noise that Manager Robinson finally protested to the arbiters against the blare of the bands on the ground that his players could not hear his coaching instructions. With it all, however, the thousands were exceedingly fair in their applause, and every star play of the many made by the Brooklyns was accorded the same approval as those reeled off by the smooth Red Sox machine.

HY MYERS THE STAR OF DODGERS.

While Gainor's hit, coming as it did at the climax of a remarkable game, had earned him a place in the Hall of Fame reserved for baseball players, there were others whose play showed the heights to which a player can rise when occasions like that of this afternoon demand.

"Hy" Myers, already a hero with his home run in the opening inning, robbed Hooper of an extra base hit in the sixth inning, with a running catch in which he picked the ball off the grass-top and finished with a complete somersault, coming up with the ball still tightly clinched in his bare hand. Daubert took a high twisting foul far back of first base from Walsh's bat in the eleventh in a manner made famous by Hal Chase.

In the ninth Myers again temporarily saved his team from defeat with a wonderful throw to the plate which nipped Janvrin trying to score from third on Hoblitzell's deep fly to the Superba's center fielder.

Great praise fell also to Pitchers Ruth and Smith, who swung through fourteen innings of the closest kind of play with a steadiness of service and pitching judgment seldom equalled. Fifty-one batters faced Smith and of this number only seven got hits for a total of twelve bases. Of the 48 that stepped before Ruth's delivery, only six got hits for a total of ten bases. Scott was the only player to get two hits, his collection consisting of a single and a triple.

Sherrod Smith fanned only one batter, Ruth, but he did it twice, his rival hurler appearing unable to fathom his slants. Ruth fanned four, the quartet consisting of Daubert, Myers, Cutshaw and Olson.

The official attendance figures for the game showed that 41,373 spectators paid admission for a total of $82,626, of which the players will receive $44,618.04, the club owners $14,872.68 each, and the national commission $8,262.60. The totals for the two games now stand: Attendance, 77,490; receipts, $159,115.50; players' share, $85,922.37; each club's share, $28,640.79; national commission, $15,911.55.

The Game in Detail.

Johnston, the first man up for Brooklyn when the game began, had two strikes on him and then received three bad balls. He lifted the next pitch to Walker for an out. "Jake" Daubert hit the second ball pitched for a high foul, which Gardner gathered in near the Rex Sox dugout.

Centerfielder Myers, after allowing the first ball to go by, caught the next pitch squarely on his bat. The ball shot to the far outfield between Walker and Hooper. Hooper, running fast, made a great leap for the horse hide and missed it, the ball rolling to the extreme centerfield corner. Myers raced all the way home before the ball could be relayed to the plate. His team mates slapped him on the back as he walked to the Dodgers' bench.

Wheat then hit almost to the same place where Myers' home run had struck, but the ball sailed higher and Hooper had lots of time to get under it, ending the inning.

The Red Sox were easy for Smith in their turn at bat. With the count two and two, Hooper grounded weakly to Smith and was thrown out. Janvrin flied out to Myers, and Walker ended the inning by lifting a high foul fly to Daubert.

Opening the second inning for Brooklyn, Cutshaw chopped a grounder that bounced off Ruth's glove to Gardner, who threw the runner out by a quick toss. Mowrey sent a swift liner that went into Janvrin's hands for the second out. Olson fanned.

Hoblitzell, first up for the American league champions, in their half of the second, went out, Olson to Daubert. Duffy Lewis here got Boston's first hit, a single to center. After a few attempts by Smith to nip Lewis off first, during which Captain Jack Barry, who was coaching at that base, claimed a balk, which was not allowed, Lewis was forced at second by Gardner, Mowrey deflecting the ball to Olson, who threw the runner out. It was a close decision. Smith made several attempts to get Gardner off first, and Catcher Miller finally nailed him by a quick throw to Daubert. It was another close play and the Boston fans showed displeasure with Umpire Quigley's decision.

Smith Doubles.

Miller opened the National leaguers' third inning by grounding out, Scott to Hoblitzell. Pitcher Smith slammed a two-bagger down the right field foul line. He tried to stretch the hit into a triple, but a perfect return of the ball, Hooper to Walker, who had come in almost to second base, beat him to the bag. Smith apparently did not have a chance to get to third, and when some of the experts declared it was an error, judgment killed Brooklyn's chance for a run, as Johnston, the next man up, laced a single to centerfield which would easily have scored Smith. Johnston tried to steal, but a perfect throw, Thomas to Janvrin, got him. The inning was thus ended with Daubert at bat, with two balls and two strikes.

Scott began the Red Sox half of the third inning very auspiciously. With the count two balls and one strike, he hit to the left centerfield for three bases. He was held on third on Thomas' rap, when Cutshaw came running in, scooped up the grounder and threw the catcher out at first. Ruth sent a grounder to the same spot, but this time Cutshaw, in his anxiety to throw to the plate to head off the speeding Scott, juggled the ball and the best he could do was to swing around and throw out Ruth. As subsequent events showed, this momentary fumble of the ball, allowing Scott to score, beat Brooklyn. Cutshaw, apparently upset by the play, let Hooper's encounter go through his legs, and Hooper was safe on the error. Janvrin ended the inning by forcing Hooper, Olson to Cutshaw.

Daubert got a base on balls in the fourth, but died quickly in a snappy double play. Myers hit to Scott and "Jake" was thrown out at second, while Myers was checked at first by Janvrin's throw. Wheat bumped a grounder at Ruth and was thrown out.

The Red Sox also got a man on in the fourth on a base on balls, but another quick double play ended this inning. Walker went out, Smith to Daubert. Hoblitzell got a base on balls and was doubled up on Lewis' rap—Mowrey to Cutshaw to Daubert.

Each side got a hit in the fifth inning. For the Superbas, Cutshaw fanned and Mowrey died, Janvrin to Hoblitzell. Olson shot a single to left, but his effort went to naught when Miller filed to Hooper.

Olson Interferes.

Cutshaw made a fine scoop of Gardner's grounder and the runner was thrown out. Scott went out, Mowrey to Daubert. Thomas hit down the left field foul line. Wheat barely managed to touch the ball, but could not grasp it. Thomas rounded second base safely, and in going to third ran into Olson, who was directly on the base path, and fell. Thomas scrambled back to second, but Umpire Quigley waved the runner to third because of Olson's interference. Olson protested in vain. Ruth ended the inning by striking out.

The sixth inning was quickly played. Smith, for Brooklyn, was thrown out by Scott. Johnston walked on four pitched balls and was thrown out, Thomas to Janvrin, when he made another attempt to steal. Daubert grounded out, Gardner to Hoblitzell.

The Red Sox went out in order. Hooper sent a line drive to Myers, who, after a sharp sprint caught the ball off the toes of his shoes, turned a somersault and came up with the ball in his hand. It was the feature play of the outfield for the game and was applauded by Brooklyn and Boston fans alike. Janvrin also flied to Myers, and Walker was thrown out by Cutshaw.

It was one, two, three for the Robinson men in the seventh. Myers and Wheat were thrown out by Janvrin, and Cutshaw sent up a fly to Hoblitzell. Brooklyn made a protest against Quigley's decision on Myers at first and the Brooklyn supporters yelled their disapproval.

Hoblitzell got his second base on balls in the Red Sox turn at bat and advanced to second on Lewis' sacrifice, Smith to Daubert. Gardner flied out to Olson and Scott grounded to Mowrey, who touched Hoblitzell out as Hobby dashed for third.

Brooklyn's half of the eighth was full of action. Mowrey opened with a clean single to left field and went to second on Olson's sacrifice, Thomas to Hoblitzell. Miller singled over second and Mowrey went to third. He started to dash for home, but thought better of it and returned to third base as Walker threw to the plate, Miller taking second on the throw-in.

The Brooklynites in the stand made a great noise as they saw a possible run in the making. The Red Sox crept in to the edge of the diamond. Smith's grounder was snapped up by Scott and Mowrey was caught between third and home and run down, Scott to Thomas to Gardner to Ruth. Miller reached third and Smith second on the play. Johnston brought dismay to the Brooklyn supporters by ending the inning on a weak grounder to Ruth, who tossed him out. It was a tight place for Boston and there was much cheering by the home fans when it was ended.

The Red Sox' half of the eighth was brief. Daubert gathered up Thomas' grounder and tossed him out to Smith. Ruth flied to Wheat and Hooper flied to Johnston, his only chance of the long game.

The National league champions could do little with Ruth's pitching in the ninth, desperate as was the situation. Daubert was thrown out by Gardner. Myers flied to Walker and Wheat was tossed out, Hoblitzell to Ruth.

The Extra Innings.

Boston made a great effort to win in the ninth. Janvrin hoisted a Texas leaguer that rolled over the left field foul line for two bases. Jimmy Walsh, formerly of the Philadelphia Athletics, went to bat in the pinch for Walker. He bunted to Smith, who threw to third to nail Janvrin, but Mowrey dropped the ball and the Red Sox runner was safe. Hoblitzell sent a high fly to Myers, who made the catch and then a great throw, picking off Janvrin as he slid to the plate with what would have been the winning run. Walsh went to second on the throw. Lewis was purposely walked amid much excitement, but Gardner brought dismay to the Boston rooters by fouling out to Miller. Thus the game was forced into extra innings.

Brooklyn got a man on in the tenth. Walsh replaced Walker in centerfield for the Red Sox. Janvrin threw out Cutshaw. Gardner deflected Mowrey's ground hit over to Scott, who threw out the runner. Olson drew a base on balls, but was left when Gardner leaped in the air and caught Miller's terrific line drive.

The American leaguers in their half of the tenth made another desperate effort to score. Scott singled to right and the Boston fans yelled. Thomas sent him to second on a fine sacrifice, Cutshaw to Daubert. Ruth tried hard to score the runner, but struck out. Hooper singled on a ball hit to Mowrey. The latter was about to throw to first base when he changed his mind and tried to get Scott rounding third. Scott stopped a moment, then tried to get back to third, but Olson by a fine piece of head work, dashed to the bag and got Mowrey's snap throw and Scott was out.

The Dodgers gave the Red Sox no trouble in the eleventh. Smith grounded out, Gardner to Hoblitzell, and a minute later Gardner made a dashing stop and throw of Johnston's grounder for the second out. Daubert fanned.

Boston got a man on in the eleventh. After Janvrin had flied to Daubert and Walsh fouled out to the Brooklyn first baseman, Hoblitzell drew a base on balls, but was left at first when Mowrey threw out Lewis.

Pitcher Ruth seemed to get better as the long game progressed. In the twelfth he struck out Myers. Wheat raised a fly to Gardner, and Cutshaw was thrown out by Scott.

Carrigan's men again got a man on base in their half of the twelfth. Gardner flied to Wheat and Scott walked. Thomas forced Scott, Olson to Cutshaw, and Ruth was thrown out by Smith.

Lewis' Fine Catch.

In the thirteenth Mowrey reached first safely on Gardner's throw into the dirt of his grounder. Olson sacrificed, Ruth to Hoblitzell. Miller sent a high fly to the infield, which Thomas gathered in, and Smith flied to Lewis, who made a fine catch.

Boston was quickly dismissed. Hooper went out, Smith to Daubert and both Janvrin and Walsh sent up foul flies to Mowrey.

In the fourteenth Johnston was thrown out by Scott. Daubert flied to Walsh, and Scott threw out Myers by a spectacular play. Scott rushed in and got Myers' sharp grounder in front of second and whipped the ball to Hoblitzell as the Red Sox fans cheered.

Then came the climax. Hoblitzell drew his fourth base on balls in his sixth trip to the plate. He went to second on Lewis' sacrifice, Smith to Cutshaw. Amid intense excitement and a terrific din, Manager Carrigan sent Gainor in to bat for Gardner and McNally ran for Hoblitzell. Gainor had one strike on him when he laced the ball to left field. McNally dashed around third and the crowd cheered frantically when they saw Wheat's throw to the plate go wide and McNally easily tallied the run which gave the Red Sox their second victory.

Smith Should Have Passed Del Gainor, Says Fullerton

This One Blunder Offset a Smartly Pitched Game—Mowrey Made Great Play—Fullerton Looks for Coombs to Beat Mays in Today's Game at Brooklyn.

By Hugh S. Fullerton.

Boston, Mass., October 9.—(Special.) Boston won the greatest world's series game ever played today before perhaps the greatest crowd that ever saw a world's series game, and won it by a blunder in the fourteenth inning, after the two teams had played each other to a standstill.

Ruth pitched for Boston and was saved by the fact that his defensive support is superior to that of Brooklyn. For five innings he was pounded, plunked and pounced upon at every turn, and saved only by the sharpest and grandest of fielding. Then he steadied a bit and had that Brooklyn club stopped.

Yesterday Wilbert Robinson announced that he intended to pitch Larry Cheney (which was suicide) and to the other 50 per cent of the correspondents he announced that he would pitch Jack Coombs. That being the case, one might have guessed that he would pitch Sherrod Smith.

Mr. Smith is a left-handed hurler who has been regarded as rather a joke. He was not even figured to pitch a full game in the world's series, and, according to today's dope, we may expect Robinson to pitch Wheezer Dell tomorrow.

Smith Hurled Well.

Anyhow, he sent Smith to the slab, and Smith, a second-rate pitcher in a third-rate league, proceeded to pitch one of the grandest games of ball ever seen. He went fourteen innings before he made a mistake, and he went fourteen innings of as fast and as brilliant baseball as any one wants to see.

He outguessed, outgeneraled and stopped the Red Sox. He gave his team every chance to win—and it must be admitted that the Brooklyn team dogs it when it has the chance. It scored a run off Babe Ruth because one terrific drive by Myers skipped through two outfielders and went as a home run.

Brooklyn had only one more logical chance to score a run, and on that occasion Mowrey was cut down at the plate and the chance was ruined. We will hear from Brooklyn that the breaks of the game all were against the Dodgers. This is true, and at the same time untrue.

On two occasions, viz: In the ninth and tenth inning of the battle luck favored Boston. But after it had favored the Red Sox and allowed them to get within reaching distance of the plate, it at once switched and favored Brooklyn in preventing those runs from counting.

In generalship and judgment Boston had all the worst of the argument. In the ninth inning Janvrin was coached home to almost certain destruction and in the tenth, when it looked as if the Red Sox would win certainly Scott rounded third base too far and was cut down and trapped off the bag. He slipped and fell as he rounded the bag, but in spite of that we must not detract from the credit of Mike Mowrey, who made the smartest and best inside play of the series and one that came near spilling all the dope again.

We will hear for a number of years that Hi Myers was the hero of this game because of his home run in the first inning, which placed the Red Sox on the defensive for two hours, and because of his grand throw which kept Janvrin from scoring in the ninth. They probably will erect statues to Sherrod Smith and Ruth and Del Gainor and forget all about Mike Mowrey, but it was Mike who made the best and the smartest play of the game.

Mowrey's Smart Play.

The situation was this: Scott, who was Boston's hero of the day, had singled, Thomas had advanced him with a sacrifice and Ruth had struck out, when Hooper pushed a slow grounder to third. There was not a chance in the world for Mowrey to handle the ball and throw out Hooper, but he scooped the ball, made a bluff toward first base and shot the ball back to third. Olson had come up the line with the runner and was covering the bag, so he grabbed the ball and dived at Scott, who, seeing himself trapped, tried to stop, slipped and was caught.

It was a magnificent game from a pitching and a defensive standpoint. The day was dark and threatening and just why Robby refused to pitch Coombs was uncertain. He had decided that Coombs would not pitch because of the sun fields on the Braves' ground and had elected Cheney in his stead.

Now Sherrod Smith is a pretty rotten pitcher. He had been a sort of joke in the National league, his own league, but today he looked like a wonder. He pitched one of the cleverest games we ever saw. His judgment seemed to us faultless up to the fourteenth inning, when he finally blew. The fact is, he had been arm weary for two innings, while Ruth was getting stronger. He was tired and showed it by his change of delivery and the extra effort he put behind each ball. From the ninth inning on it was a question of whether the rain would fall in time to save him. He was staving off defeat only by outguessing his foes, and they were plainly puzzled, not by what he was pitching, but by the way he handed it to them.

In the fourteenth, there came one of the undopable events that go to make baseball. Hoblitzell has been carried on the Boston team for years because he can hit. It is tradition that he cannot hit left-handed pitching.

Yet Smith, a smart left-hander, passed Hobby, who is reputed to be unable to hit left-handers, for the fourth time in the game. Lewis at once sacrificed. It was a cinch that the game would be called at the end of the inning because a rain was coming up and the darkness was gathering. Boston had all to gain and nothing to lose. So Carrigan sent McNally, a fast man, to run for Hoblitzell from second and ordered Del Gainor to bat for Larry Gardner.

Smith's Mistake.

Now study it a moment. Gainor is a good ball player, he broke an arm and has a stiff arm which handicaps his playing. He has held a major league job because he can hit left-handers while Hoblitzell cannot. That is the dope. But, with the winning run on second base and Gainor up pinch-hitting, Smith hooked one over the plate, instead of passing him. Gainor hit the ball a mile a minute to left field. A crooked bound kept Wheat from handling the ball as fast as he would have done under ordinary circumstances and McNally came scooting home with the long-delayed winning run.

Robinson is at bay; and it looks bad for the Brooklyn boys. Coombs will work the first game at Brooklyn tomorrow against Mays—and if Brooklyn is to win a game at all in this series it will be that one. Brooklyn ought to hit Mays freely and Coombs ought to be able to stop the Sox, who have shown themselves capable of being stopped.

FANS IN SUSPENSE AT GRAND DETAIL

The Fourteen-Inning Game Thrilled Big Crowd—Today's Game at 1 P. M. Matinee Follows Detail.

Monday's fourteen-inning game kept a good crowd of fans wildly enthused at the detail at the Grand theater as called by Dick Jemison, aided by the Star Ball Player.

Monday a splendid wire service, giving minute descriptions and featuring all the star plays of the game brought to an enthusiastic audience the account of the hard-fought battle how it was won and lost.

There were many close calls for both sides prior to the extra innings and the fans, quiet for a moment or two, would burst into cheers when their side secured the necessary advantage from their viewpoint or worked out of impending disaster.

Brooklyn earned a lot of friends Monday by their game fight. The detail also earned a lot of friends, every one of whom will be back at today's matinee which will be staged with Brooklyn as the scene of the combat and Jack Coombs pitted against Dutch Leonard.

The admission prices to the matinee are 25 cents for ladies and children and 50 cents for men, with the gallery 15 cents, half of which is reserved for colored fans, a large number of whom attended Monday.

Immediately following the detail, the regular Tuesday matinee with Nancy Boyer starring in "The Little Lady From Lonesome Town," will be put on. This will be at about 3 o'clock.

FATIMA
A Sensible Cigarette

Such men want comfort AFTER smoking

IT'S NOTICEABLE that more and more substantial men are choosing Fatimas for their steady smoke. There must be some reason for it. Surely, these men would quickly pay a far higher price for another cigarette if it suited them better.

That is just it. No other cigarette can quite give what Fatimas give.

Some other cigarettes taste good, yes. But Fatimas do more—they are comfortable. Not only are they comfortable to the throat and tongue while you smoke them, but, much more important, they leave a man feeling keen and "fit" AFTER smoking, even though he smokes more than usual.

PLAYERS HAVE FINE FINANCIAL SHARE

First Two Games Net Them Handsomely—Share Only in First Four Games.

The attendance and receipts for the first two games of the world's series is holding well up to the average and if the two teams continue to stage two such games as the first two have been the attendance today in Brooklyn will be even greater.

Seventy-seven thousand, four hundred and ninety fans attended the two games in Boston and paid $159,115.50 to see them. One-tenth of this money goes to the national commission.

Eighty-five thousand, nine hundred and twenty-two dollars and thirty-seven cents goes to the players. Presuming the series would end right now with the Red Sox winners, $51,553.42 would be divided among 26 Red Sox, or nearly $2,000 to the man, while $34,368.95 would go to 23 Dodgers, but the Dodgers believe that when the two games on their own grounds, starting today, are ended, that there will be a different tale and that the series will be tied up.

The clubs will divide even $28,640.79 from the two games.

IN SHORT METER

By James F. Keirans.

Duffy Lewis was the leading batsman of the 1915 Philadelphia vs. Boston series, his average being .444. He made no errors either.

Under a recent ruling of the major leagues, the club owners of the teams competing in the world's series are obliged to divide 25 per cent of their profits among the other clubs of their league.

The largest attendance and receipts at a world's series was in 1913 in the Red Sox vs. Giants series. The attendance was 252,037 and receipts $490,833. Eight games were required to decide this series.

In the 1915 series in which the Boston Braves beat the Athletics in four straight games the attendance was 111,000 and the receipts $228,739.

American league teams have captured seven of the twelve modern world's series from the National league champ-

It is estimated Brooklyn can accommodate 28,000 spectators in seats, for which $91,000 will be paid.

Boston's pitching stars are Dutch Leonard, Babe Ruth, Ernie Shore and Mays, not to mention several other lesser lights.

Boston Red Sox have been represented in three previous series and won them in 1903, 1912 and 1915. The Boston Nationals won in 1914.

Three teams in previous world's series which lost the first game won the championship and larger percentage of prize money and two of them represented Boston, the Sox accomplishing the task in 1903 and 1915. The Athletics won in 1911 from the Giants after Mathewson beat Bender 2 to 1 in the first game.

Marquard beat the Red Sox twice in 1912 pitching for the Giants. That was the season the Rube was at his best and won 19 in succession during the year for McGraw's nine.

Brooklyn's last great National league championship winning team—Hanlon's famous old Superbas of 1899 and 1900—were champions at a time when the National league alone occupied the major league field

Catchers Thomas and Carrigan, of the world's champion Red Sox, have mastered the art of underhand throwing. Chief Meyers, of Brooklyn, too, is clever in getting the ball away in this manner. Cady is an overhand thrower.

GORDON IS BEATEN BY MERCER "VARSITY"

Barnesville, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—The scheduled Gordon-Mercer reserve game did not come off according to schedule, Coach Zellars for some reason not being able to bring up a full scrub team and seven members of the varsity were substituted. According to the Baptist coach, nine of these men made the trip to Chattanooga. There was much wrangling throughout the contest, but the play was fast and furious at all stages, the Baptist representatives copping the verdict, 20-0. The visitors exhibited a strong defense and a powerful offense, their gains coming from dashes off tackle and around ends. Gordon put up a plucky scrap, exhibited a knowledge of the game, but suffered much from penalties. Gordon's entire backfield showed up well. Score by quarters:

Mercer	0	7	6	0	7—20

Referee, Goins (Gordon). Umpire, Riticor (W. and L.) Head linesman, Collier (Tech). Timekeeper, Jemison (Navy).

Rome, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—A city league of basket ball teams has been formed under the direction of the Rome Athletic club. A regular schedule will be followed, and the league will be composed of six teams.

MABEL TRASK WINS THE CASTLETON CUP

Captures Race in Straight Heats—"Pop" Geers Drives in Races.

Lexington, Ky., October 9.—Mabel Trask had an easy time winning the Castleton Cup for 2:07 trotters and scoring her seventh victory of the season over St. Frisco at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association meeting here today. Mabel Trask took the race in straight heats. St. Frisco, with George Geers driving, divided second and third money with Donna Clay. The fastest time of the race was 2:03¼.

Geers, after an illness of several weeks because of injuries sustained at Columbus, also drove DeRoche one heat in the champion futurity for four-year-old trotters, but drew her after she finished lame in the first heat. Geers was applauded when he made his first appearance on the track. Walter W. Cox won the first three races today and one heat of the fourth. He captured the first race with Trusada; won the four-year-old champion trotting futurity with Mary Putney, drove Mabel Trask to victory in the Castleton Cup race and was up behind Camelia that won the second heat of the unfinished 2:07 pace. With Colleen, Camelia and Beth Clark each winning a heat, darkness compelled the postponement of the 2:07 pace until tomorrow.

Volga, who was carded to start to beat 2:04½, the world's record for three-year-old mares, and Roan Hal to beat 2:00¾ pacing, did not start because of weather conditions.

A free-for-all pace, 2 in 3, worth $1,200, with Single G., Russell Boy, Ben Earl, Roan Hal, Anna Bradford, Braden Direct and Hal Boy entered, was announced for Wednesday.

UNPRECEDENTED FEAT IN DETAILING GAME

One Operator Sends World's Series Description Over 18,000 Miles of Wire.

New York, October 9.—An unprecedented feat in the telegraphic transmission of news was accomplished by the traffic department of the Associated Press today when one operator sitting in the stand at Braves' field in Boston was enabled to flash over eighteen thousand miles of leased wire the story of how the Boston Americans beat the Brooklyn Nationals in the second game of the world's baseball series.

Taking dictation from the Associated Press representatives who were covering the game, this operator, J. A. Bates, through the telegraph connection arranged for the service, was able to send the story to 300 Associated Press offices and newspapers in the United States, tick for tick, into each office simultaneously—as far west as San Francisco, as far north as Duluth and as far south as New Orleans.

The operator sent the story over this 18,000-mile circuit continuously for two and a half hours, and the instant McNally crossed the home plate with the winning run in the fourteenth inning the flash "Boston wins," had gone the length and breadth of the country.

Heretofore, in reporting world's series, the news has been relayed at Chicago and other points. The experiment today of making a complete trans-continental connection was reported entirely successful.

Five thousand additional miles of circuit received the story through relays, but this was by reason of news conditions. The 18,000-mile circuit, however, stands as a record in telegraphic history.

RAILROADS ASK HIGHER FRUIT CLASSIFICATION

When the hearing upon the petition of the railroads for a general revision of Georgia intrastate freight rates before the Georgia railroad commission Monday came up, Randall Clifton, assistant freight traffic manager of the Southern railway, asked the following revision for apples, pears, quinces and winter vegetables, in either straight or mixed shipments:

For less than carloads to change the present classification of class B to sixth class, which is the southern classification.

For carload rates somewhat lower than either the present or proposed rates on less than carloads, and a minimum carload weight of 24,000 pounds in lieu of the present minimum of 20,000 pounds.

Mr. Clifton reviewed the history of rates on apples in Georgia to show how the present low rate had come about through competition with all-water shipments form the east to southeastern ports prior to the development of the apple growing industry in north Georgia, which development, he said, has brought about conditions entirely different from those which produced the low rates in Georgia.

In proposing a change in the carload minimum from 20,000 pounds to 24,000 pounds, Mr. Clifton stated that in only three other states in the union is the minimum less than 24,000 pounds.

At the afternoon session Mr. Clifton proposed that the present classification of class B, less than carloads, for apricots, plums and peaches, be changed to fourth class, and that the carload classification be changed from class O to sixth class, these advances being asked on account of the highly perishable nature of these commodities and for the additional reason that the present rates are depressed beyond rates in other parts of the south and under other grand classification divisions.

C. B. Kealhofer, general freight agent of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, was on the stand and presented the proposed changes in rates and classification on watermelons at the hour of adjournment.

BARS INDORSE GILBERT FOR SUPREME BENCH

Waycross, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) The Waycross Bar association has unanimously indorsed for election as supreme court justice Judge Price Gilbert, of Columbus. Judge Gilbert has many friends through this section, and they hope he will be elected next month without opposition.

Bainbridge, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—The Bainbridge and Decatur County Bar association, at its regular meeting here, passed a unanimous resolution indorsing Judge Price Gilbert, of Columbus, for the supreme court bench, and urged the people of the county to give him their support.

Rome, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—The Rome bar has indorsed the candidacy of Judge Price Gilbert for the supreme bench, and has expressed the hope that he will have no opposition for the place. The indorsement contained the signature of practically every member of the local bar.

PRINCETON PROFESSOR IS BURIED AT SPARTA

Augusta, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—Edgeworth Bird Baxter, a former brilliant attorney of Augusta, but for the past several years an instructor in jurisprudence and philosophy at Princeton university, died Saturday at Trenton, N. J.

The remains have been conveyed to Sparta, Ga., the home of his father, Colonel Richard Baxter, where the funeral took place today. Edgeworth Baxter was 48 years of age. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ella Alexander Baxter, of this city, and two daughters, Misses Lucy and Vera Baxter, students at LaGrange Female college.

TOWN WILL CELEBRATE ADVENT OF GAS PLANT

Waycross, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) Gas will be formally turned on in Waycross tomorrow, marking the actual opening of a plant Waycross has been trying for ten years to secure. The plant was tested today and everything is in readiness for the formal opening.

The first gas was made Saturday afternoon, Mayor Beaton and other citizens participating in the exercises. A public reception will be given tomorrow by the gas company, and throughout the afternoon and evening refreshments and music will be enjoyed.

WOMAN DROPS DEAD LEAVING DINNER TABLE

Fort Valley, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) Mrs. Janie Adams White, age 57 years, died here suddenly today. She was seemingly in good health when she sat down to the dinner table with her family. As she finished the meal she rose from the table and fell dead. She is survived by three sons, W. M., of this city, and Q. H. and E. F. White, of Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. T. F. Ridge and Mrs. Maude Burnett, both of Atlanta. The body was shipped to Atlanta tonight and funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at Patterson's chapel.

Augusta, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) A five-day whirlwind campaign by the Augusta Y. W. C. A. came to a close last Saturday night, in which the sum of $31,000 was raised for the improvement and equipment of a handsome new home on Greene street, which the association has recently bought.

Government Makes Forecast Of Farm Crops Production

Wheat Production Is Forecasted as 607,557,000 Bushels; Corn, 717,932,000, and Oats, 1,229,182,000—Crops Have Suffered From Adverse Conditions.

Washington, October 9—Further decrease in production prospects of the country's principal farm crops, excepting corn, flax, rice and kafirs, was indicated today in the department of agriculture's monthly report

A preliminary estimate places the wheat crop at 609,557,000 bushels, a drop of 3,500,000 bushels from the amount forecast from September 1 conditions, and 404,000,000 bushels under last year's record-breaking crop.

Corn production prospects increased 8,400,000 bushels as a result of favorable weather conditions during September and a total crop of 2,717,932,000 bushels is forecast. That is more than 300,000,000 less than harvested last year.

The white potato crop is the smallest since 1911. Today's forecast of production is 300,563,000 bushels, a decrease of 17,929,000 bushels from the estimate made a month ago and 59,000,000 bushels below last year's crop

Tobacco prospects decreased 20,4[illegible]5,000 pounds since last month's report, but the indicated production this year, 1,203,077,000 pounds, will be a record.

Decreases in production prospects from last month's indications includ: Oats, 1,860,000 bushels; barley, 905,000 bushels; buckwheat, 1,846,000 bushels; sweet potatoes, 1,535,000 bushels; pears, 99,000 bushels; apples, 1,510,000 barrels, and sugar beats 148,000 tons.

The government's forecasts of production of the principal crops, based on a canvass made October 1 by its agents and correspondents throughout the country, together with forecasts made from the September 1 canvass and statistics of last year's production (in thousands of bushels, i. e. 000's omitted), follow:

INSPECTORS COMPLETE EXAMINATION OF BOOKS

Athens, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—Federal Inspectors H. E. Savely and F. M. McLaughlin, of the government agricultural department, today completed a two-weeks' checking of the financial affairs of the State College of Agriculture—the audit having special reference to the Smith-Lever bill, the funds for Georgia under this measure now being handled through the college at Athens.

N. T. Frame, the state agent of the agricultural extension work of West Virginia state university, at Morgantown, left Athens today, after several days' examination of the methods employed in the extension work in this state. He will institute many of the same plans in West Virgina.

The Natonal Meat Packers' association, gathering at Cincinnati this week, has invited President A. M. Soule, of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, to address their meeting, indicating the importance the packers are for the first time expressing in the south as a coming producer of meats.

NO INSURANCE NOW FOR SHIPS LEAVING NEW ORLEANS PORT

New Orleans, October 9.—Local agents of marine insurance companies announced late today that war risks on vessels and cargoes out of New Orleans have been entirely suspended for the present, owing to the German submarine activity in the North Atlantic. The agents stated no cargo insurance of any kind will be placed without its being approved by wire or cable by the headquarters offices. Orders for this action were received today from London and New York marine insurance companies, with agencies here.

Seven British and one French vessel now are in port and several other allied merchantmen have sailed within the last few days. Local shippers asserted that the action of the marine insurance companies will seriously restrict shipping from this port.

Sugar.

New York, October 9.—The local market for raw sugar was steady and unchanged. It was rumored that about 75,000 bags Cubas had been sold for nearby shipment, but such an amount could not be confirmed, although there were 25,000 bags of Cubas sold to local refiners at 5 cost and freight, for prompt shipment and 10,000 bags for Porto Ricos from store at equal to 6.02 for centrifugal, or the same price as Cubas. The market closed firm at 5 cents for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 6.02 for centrifugal and 5.12 for molasses.

Trading in the market for refined sugar was quieter today but prices were firmly held, with all refiners now listing on the basis of 7 cents for fine granulated.

The market for sugar futures was only moderately active today, but the undertone was firmer on covering and a little buying by trade interests. The submarine activities may have had an effect on sentiment, as some were of the opinion that it might interefere with exports of granulated from this country, while others said that it no doubt would cost higher freight rates from Cuba. At any rate, prices did not show much buoyancy, and aside from a sharp advance in October, which closed 15 points net higher on covering by shorts, other positions showed advance of only 4 to 8 points. Sales were 4,850 tons.

Coffee.

New York, October 9.—The market for coffee futures showed greatly increased activity today with prices advancing on apprehension that the latest submarine developments would increase the cost of importation. The opening was at an advance of 12 to 20 points on buying, which seemed to come chiefly from Wall street sources. Prices eased off some 4 or 5 points from the best during the middle of the day under realizing and some trade selling which may have been inspired by a feeling that increased insurance rates would be offset by the depressing influence on Brazil of further restrictions on the export outlet.

Later, however, the market firmed up again, reaching the best point of the day on a more active scattering demand, with March selling at 8.78 and September at 8.99. The close showed a net advance of 16 to 25 points. Sales, 141,750.

Spot coffee steady; Rio sevens, 9⅝; Santos fours, 11⅝. The official cables from Brazil reported no change in primary markets except for an advance of 5 to 50 reis in Santos futures. Rio exchange on London was 1-32d higher. Santos reported clearances of 15,000 for New York and 12,000 for New Orleans. Brazilian port receipts, 59,000; Jundiahy, 41,000.

WHEAT QUOTATIONS TAKE BIG PLUNGE

Submarine Attacks on Merchant Vessels Cause Drop of 4 3-4 Cents Per Bushel. Export Demand Causes Rally—Market Down 2 1-4 Cents.

Chicago, October 9.—Wheat values broke severely today 4¾c a bushel, altogether on account of the wholesale destruction of vessels and because of the fact that sailings were being cancelled on a large scale. Sharpened export demand, however, rallied the market, which closed firm at 1½c to 2¼c net decline, with December at $1.57¼ and May at $1.56¾. Corn finished ⅝c to ⅝c down, oats off ¾c and provisions showing a loss of 5c to 52c.

Excited rushes to sell carried down wheat prices in some cases 4½c right at the outset, but evidences that exporters were actively buying on the decline caused confidence to some extent to replace semi-panic. Recovery in quotations was making rather notable progress until word came that British vessel owners were giving orders to postpone departures at such leading ports as Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Then the weakness in the wheat market was temporarily renewed, and the breaks were worse even than at the opening. Export buying, however, again became apparent, and to a considerable extent offset fears that business with Europe would be seriously curtailed by inability to make shipments.

Increased crop damage in Argentina and higher prices at Liverpool tended throughout the day to exercise a steadying effect on the wheat market here. Some dispatches from Argentina pointed to a crop failure in the north and central provinces. Such conditions went far to explain the continued export call in the face of the unprecedented interference with commerce off the New England coast.

Corn was governed by the same influences that affected wheat at times, however, buying was heavy on the part of one of the largest houses in the trade. Oats paralleled the action of other cereals. Receipts were liberal.

Provisions as well as grain were lowered by the uncertainty resulting from submarine activity. The situation was taken advantage of by shorts, who covered freely in lard and ribs.

New York, October 9.—The latest submarine developments caused great nervousness in the cotton market today and at times liquidation was sensationally heavy. After selling off to 16.73, however, January rallied to 16.98 in the late trading and closed at 16.93, with the general list closing irregular at a net decline of 17 to 29 points.

The market opened weak at a decline of 29 to 49 points. The cables were relatively firm, but were overshadowed by apprehensions that restrictions upon the export movement would lead to an accumulation of supplies in the American markets and increased pressure of hedging. Reports that some of the leading British steamship lines had ordered their vessels not to leave American ports until further orders, and of a sharp advance in marine war risks, naturally added to the confusion of sentiment. January contracts sold at 16.75 on the call and March at 16.88, or just about half a cent under the high levels of Saturday.

Trade interests were very big buyers at this decline, while there was also active profit-taking by recent sellers, and prices rallied during the middle of the morning, with December selling up from 16.90 to 17.08, January to 17.03, and March to 17.20. This carried the market back to within 17 or 19 points of Saturday's closing figures, but the advance seemed to attract a renewal of general Wall street, western and commission house liquidation, with nearly all the active months breaking through the early low point during the middle of the day. December contracts, for instance, sold off to 16.87, while the general list showed net declines of 32 to 50 points. Offerings then diminished, while trade interests continued active buyers, and there were sharp rallies in the late trading as a result of covering.

The comparatively large exports reported for the day amounting to 44,553 bales, may have helped to steady the late market, although it was believed that the bulk of this cotton had actually been shipped on Saturday.

Spot cotton quiet; middling upland, 17.00; sales, 1,300 bales.

New Orleans Down 30 Points.

New Orleans, October 9.—Cotton broke violently on this market today, the result of German submarine operations, the fear that their possible continuance would shut off exports of the staple and apprehension over their effect on international politics. The market opened on the wildest selling since the beginning of the war, which almost immediately got into full swing. On the first call prices of the more active months lost 46 to 65 points. Strong support caused a rally, but this was met by increased selling which, by noon widened the loss to 51 to 65 points, or $2.50 to $3.25 a bale. The opening slump, as the record of a few minutes' trading, was the greatest in months.

In the afternoon the market acted somewhat sold out, although the tone was none too steady, and last prices for the day were at a net loss of 28 to 31 points. The partial recovery was due chiefly to fresh buying by strong bullish interest, who throughout the session openly endeavored to keep the market from too wide losses.

The lowest prices of the session followed the report that insurance and war risks had been withdrawn and that some steamship lines had cancelled sailings. This probably had more to do with the second selling wave than any other factor. Toward the end of the day a somewhat better feeling prevailed after the official announcement that this port had cleared 3,139 bales of cotton for England and that Galveston had cleared 20,330 bales for England and 11,449 bales for France, although it was not definitely known whether these vessels would immediately proceed on their way across the Atlantic.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, October 9.—Despite the weakness in cotton and lard, cotton oil made a very firm showing on active buying and short covering, inspired by the inherent strength in crude in the south. A considerable part of the day's business was in the way of undoing hedges on the part of refiners. Final prices were 2 points lower to 3 net higher. Total sales were 70,500 barrels, the largest on record.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

The selling Monday was general on the opening on the submarine incident. Little cotton was wanter until January struck 16.75, on which basis there was very large trade buying, considerable short covering and some speculative buying for a turn, sufficient to cause a 30-point rally. Renewed selling by the south, Wall street and the west around noon caused another dip, but again it rallied on buying by large interests. Liverpool is a good buyer and apparently knew nothing of the ships sunk, as they cabled over here to know the cause of the break. The censors probably kept it out of the English newspapers. The unexpected developments over Sunday turned sentiment bearish, but bulls say the depression is only temporary, as England will soon rid these waters of enemy submarines.

The chief demand today came from large trade interests and the technical position of the cotton market is greatly improved by the enormous long liquidation which has taken place. Reports from all sections of the south indicate that the spot market has not followed the decline. Large spot interests bought all the December offered today. DOREMUS & CO.

New York, October 9.—(Special.)—Reports of yesterday's German submarine activities of the New England coast, resulting in the destruction of nine vessels of allied and neutral nations, unsettled all American markets today. The early break in cotton was forwarded by a sharp rally, but the news, as it filtered out, evidently caused uneasiness and considerable selling followed, on which the market worked down to below the low prices of the morning. The market had numerous rallies and declines for the remainder of the day, but closed well above the bottom figures.

We do not believe submarine activity will have any permanent depressing effect upon prices. It is true that such warfare will restrict exports temporarily, but it does not mean a bale less in the final consumption of cotton. There is no reason for the south to become hysterical or alarmed over a situation which, if anything, may mean greater ultimate scarcity of cotton through its destruction, while enroute to ports of the allies. We still believe in higher prices and favor purchases, particularly of December, which, as per our prediction of last week, sold over March today. This option, in our opinion, is a dangerous proposition for hedge and speculative shorts.

Cotton oil opened steady, reacted moderately in sympathy with the decline in cotton and lard, rallied and closed about the top figures. It may show hesitation incident to weakness in other markets, but we believe in purchases on moderate declines, particularly of November and December. Like cotton we think the nearby positions are dangerous for shorts. CHARLES FAIRCHILD & CO.

New York, October 9.—(Special.)—The submarine activities almost in sight of our shores may be expected to check exports until overcome in these war times. It may check the blind bullish enthusiasm of last week. That would appear as conservative view of an unparalleled situation. Many large selling orders at the opening broke the market down some forty points from the previous close. On the decline the local bulls were free buyers, as wede some arbitrage buyers. Later on the American spinners came as buyers as on a rumor that the submarine had been captured, the market recovered half the decline.

The local feeling is bullish on the idea that the market did not permanently decline on the "Lusitania" outrage and therefore it will not on the destruction of freight steamers around Nantucket light ship. HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, October 9.—(Special.)—The activity of German submarines in the western Atlantic brought about heavy liquidation in this market today, based upon the feeling that even though political complications are wholly avoided, the export of cotton will be curtailed, thus placing an additional burden upon American holders.

Freight and insurance rates have advanced and the trade generally is greatly unsettled. However, the allies may be depended upon to assemble their resources for the protection of their commerce, and as the fundamentals of the cotton market have undergone no change, we advise buying on this decline. BOND, M'ENANY & CO.

New York, October 9.—(Special.)—All economic factors in the cotton market today were lost sight of in the liquidation of speculative accounts, due to the destruction of ships of commerce by German submarines. Aside from the shock to speculation, the real import in the situation is the temporary or prolonged cessation of cotton shipments from the ports, and the high freight and insurance rates. It is a time for caution until the real situation shall have revealed itself. J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, October 9.—(Special.)—The cotton market was demoralized this morning upon reports of submarine activity close to American shores. Although it is admitted that no acts were committed in violation of international law, never-the-less the effect upon insurance rates and other facts affecting exporting of cotton caused a nervous feeling and lower market. The rally this afternoon was largely upon short covering, but a healthy undertone was manifest and temporary indications point to a higher market unless further complications of a political nature occur.

We are still opposed to present values from a statistical standpoint, and do not advise the purchase of cotton for more than scalping profits. Liverpool is due ½ point lower for January and February. JOHNSTON, STORM & CO.

New York, October 9.—(Special.)—The submarine activity in proximity to our own shores caused considerable turmoil in all markets this morning. Not only grain and cotton were affected, but also the stock market, and it was the extreme activity of this latter market which detracted from the interest in cotton.

Marine insurance and ocean freights immediately advanced until it added from $3 to $5 per bale to the cost of getting cotton to foreign shores to compensate for which foreign markets should have advanced or our market declined a like amount. In the early trading the cotton market was rather weak and at one time showed about 50 points loss under Saturday's closing prices. The bulls have made a valiant fight and have recovered a few of their lost trenches upon the further affirmation of prospective peace overtures coming to President Wilson from the German emperor. The Wall street banker, to whom this rumor was attributed, still insists that such overtures are en route.

The latter part of the day the word came from the south that spot cottons were not yielding in price with contracts and final closing prices showed about 25 to 30 points loss. It is hard to say what Liverpool is due tomorrow. From point of mathematics and to preserve the parities which existed at 11 o'clock today January and February should open tomorrow at 9.76½, just where it closed today, but with the changed marine insurance and freight rates to compensate for Liverpool might open at 10 pence per pound and still not change our market.

The bulls claim that the per capita circulation of gold was only $19 when the war started and is today $25 in the United States, and that everything must show a corresponding 30 per cent increase in price. RENSKORF, LYON & CO.

New Orleans, October 9.—(Special.)—The market opened very weak this morning on reports of the German submarine warfare being carried to American waters. However enormous buying came in on the decline and prices rallied sharply. Later on continued liquidation again caused the market to sell off, but the undertone was good and there were no signs of weakness such as was evidenced in the early morning trading. We are inclined to believe that the technical position of the market has been greatly strengthened and advise buying on any good decline. DUGGAN, MAGINNIS & CO.

LEADING STOCKS SAG IN PANICKY MARKET

Activities of German Submarines Cause Startling Drop in Prices of U. S. Steel, Union Pacific and Others.

New York, October 9.—The supreme importance of the foreign situation upon financial, industrial and commercial conditions in this country was exemplified with telling force today, the stock market becoming almost panic-stricken as a result of the exploits of Germany's submarines in neighboring waters.

Declines were most startling and bewildering at the opening and suggested a recurrence of the apprehension manifested on previous occasions when relations between Washington and Berlin were admittedly under a severe strain.

Such leaders as United States Steel, Union Pacific, Mercantile Marines and the better known "war brides" broke from 5 to almost 20 points, the list for a time showing little support. This condition underwent general readjustment, however, before the end of the morning session, much of the setback being retrieved, but an undercurrent of uncertainty prevailed to the end.

Dealings slackened materially in the early afternoon, the market at that period apparently proceeding through the stages of assimilation. Fresh activity developed in the final hour, Steel proving something of a balance with other investment issues, some of which hardened on the publication of the government crop report.

Of the tremendous turn-over, estimated at about 2,100,000 shares, fully 30 per cent was limited to steel and the marines. Steel fluctuated between 108 and 113¼, closing at 111½, a net loss of 4⅝ points. Marine preferred and common recorded gross losses of 13 and 10 points, respectively, closing at no material recovery from minimum prices.

Rails were steadily absorbed at concessions and wound up the feverish session at comparatively light losses. Certain recently strong industrials, notably Central Leather and Sugars, as well as Gas shares, suffered only nominal declines.

Bonds were heavy to weak on restricted dealings. Total sales, par value, were $4,270,000.

United States coupon 2's declined ½ per cent on call.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES

From Day to Day

Building news featured the real estate market Monday. A total of $32,208 worth of building permits was issued.

Peachtree Business Building.

The Lowenstein Investment company took a building permit to erect a two-story and basement brick building at No. 265 Peachtree street, costing $20,500.

The Mackie Construction company has the contract.

Ground dimensions of the building will be 49 feet by 150 feet. The building will be utilized by mercantile houses.

Walker Drive Dwelling.

H. W. Nicholes took a permit to build a two-story brick veneer dwelling of eight rooms at No. 14 Walker drive, costing $4,500.

Mr. Nicholes also took a permit to mercantile building of brick veneer construction at the corner of Bellwood and Chestnut street. The affair is to cost $2,500.

Adair Tax List.

Forrest & George Adair have issued their biennial tax list. The list shows only Atlanta property owners paying taxes on an assessment of $1,000 or more. The assessment represents only 60 per cent of the real value.

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED—Male

HAVE YOU EVER CONSIDERED BECOMING A LIFE INSURANCE SOLICITOR?

OF course no insurance agent ever knows his ability until he has actually had a rate book and started actively at work. Many men who were unsuccessful in other lines of business have made good in insurance. It took a failure in the cotton business years ago for one inexperienced man to come to me and sign a contract. He made $13,000 in six weeks. This is unusual, but no matter what you are doing at present, it is worth while to investigate the possibilities of the insurance business, and it will not take long for you to find out whether it is your proper calling.

There are thousands of men in Georgia who know they are worth more than they are able to demand. They will remain where they are if they are not ambitious and willing to make an experiment.

MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

AMUSEMENTS

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Mrs. Thomas Whiffen and company in "The Golden Night" have all of the headline attractions at the Forsyth this week. The little play is excellent. Mrs. Whiffen, playing the part of the grandmother, for which she is admirably suited both as to age and characteristics, is typical. According to her own words in a part of the dialogue "she ought to be in her dotage, but she is not," and this is admirably proven throughout the course of the pleasing act.

It is by her ingenuity that her granddaughter and grandson are reunited after being separated by the many enticements of New York. The one scene is the home of the old couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Whitfield. A table is shown containing candles indicating that it is the celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. But the little party they have begun all by themselves is broken into by the arrival of the granddaughter, who has left her husband and babies in New York because she became angry at something Robert has done. And then, with the grandmother's aid, they become reunited in a way that leaves a good impression in the minds of the audience.

Next in pleasing features is the acrobatic act of the Cycling McNutts. And the most pleasing feature of their act, the part which grips the attention of the audience and wins its heartiest approval is that of the Littlest McNutt in the person of a small girl about 6 or 8 years of age. The grown-ups got their fair share of the applause, but she captures most of it for herself.

Jimmy Casson and Dorothy Earle offer some singing and dancing and they get a good share of the applause.

James Kelsp and Blanche Leighton, the woman of the team weighing apparently about 250 pounds, have some pleasing foolish stunts and patter that become infectious before they leave the stage.

Violet McMillan, billed as the Cinderella of the screen and a late star of the Paramount, Universal and Mutual program, appears in person with the aid of some of the photo-plays she has appeared in with the Universal company.

"The Garden of Aloha" offered by Garry McGarry, featuring the dancing of Pauline Thurston, caught the audience last night and the applause was generous. The haunting strains of the ukalele played by four Hawaiians while Miss Thurston dances the hula hula in the native costume, makes the audience first silent and then demonstrative in its pleasure. It is a pantomime throughout with no word spoken. The dancing is a revelation.

George W. Jones and Harry Sylvester, two rather stout men, give an act called the "Huckster and the Ham," depicting an episode in city life.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Marguerite Clark.

(At the Georgian.)

Another double program is announced at the Georgian theater for today. Charlie Chaplin, the popular comedian, will be presented in "Looking for a Wife" and dainty little Marguerite Clark in "Molly Make Believe." This should prove a combination pleasing to all lovers of motion pictures.

The part played by Miss Clark in "Molly Make Believe" is one of the most lovable in all fiction and she is admirably suited by temperment and artistic skill to visualize the petite bearer of good news whom Eleanor Hallowell Abbott so delightfully described in her popular book.

On Wednesday the noted Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa, comes in "The Honorable Friend," also on Wednesday there will be shown the latest Pathe News Weekly.

The Cinderella of the Screen, Violet McMillan, Forsyth, all week.

The Grand.

Little Nancy Boyer, who plays the role of "California" in "The Little Lady From Lonesome Town" at the Grand this week, won her way into the hearts of Atlanta theatergoers last night with her acting and her grace and naturau beauty. The play in its entirety is clean and wholesome. The cast that supports Miss Boyer is well balanced.

The scene of the play is laid in southern California and the story hinges around the action of Valentine, a gambler, and "California," who with her supposed brother, Bennie, live in Lonesome Town, where Valentine is running a gambling joint.

The gambling fever grasps Bennie, who, like his father before him, was a slave of "chance." Valentine, who is in love with "California," finds that Bennie has, for the purpose of gambling, stolen the pay roll of the mining company for whom he works and hoping to recover what he had lost, plunges and loses. Being faced with the crime by Valentine, he admits his guilt and "California," in order to save her brother from stripes, consents to marry Valentine, provided he covers her brother's defaultage. Valentine shows his true colors and fakes a marriage with the girl. "California" later discovers this and renounces him.

Time passed and finds "California" happily married to Ray Hollywood, a state senator. Valentine is fighting a gambling reform measure introduced by Hollywood and finds that the girl he fooled by a mock marriage is the wife of the senator. Failing in his attempt to intimidate them both, he induces Reene, "the other woman," to bring about a scandal.

After repeated attempts she succeeds and Hollywood orders his wife from his home.

She returns to Lonesome Town to live. Steelinger, "a desert rat," who for the past fifteen years has been in search of the man that shanghaied him in Frisco, has accumulated a fortune by the sudden discovery of a mine.

Finally Bennie, who, after his escape, has gone to the Philippines and who was reported drowned, returns and as Valentine again crosses the path of "California" he calls his hand.

Steelinger, who, having proof that Valentine is the man that wronged him, appears and shot Valentine, wounding him. Through the pleadings of "California" he is spared and he confessed that "California" is the daughter of Steelinger.

Then Hollywood appears and, having discovered the truth, again claims "California" as his own.

HUGH BASSETT.

"Watch Your Step."

(At the Atlanta.)

Tonight will mark the first Atlanta performance of Irving Berlin's syncopated musical success, "Watch Your Step," which is scheduled to play a Wednesday matinee and night also. "Watch Your Step" is a melange of music, dancing and comedy and one of the biggest successes of the past season. In the south it has been praised by critics in every city and has played to such large crowds that the producers are going to put our a No. 2 show, this being the only company on tour at present. In the list of players are many well-known dancers, singers and comedians. The chorus is unusually large and unusually pretty as well. It is the nearest approach to a Ziegfeld show brought south in some years.

"DIANA, THE HUNTRESS," AN ARTISTIC TRIUMPH

(At the Georgian.)

A motion picture event that is being looked forward to by all lovers of the silent screen is that announced by the Georgian theater for Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. On those days there will be presented Paul Swann and associates in an artistic spectacular film in colors, "Diana, the Huntress." It is a picture of extraordinary merit, every moment of which is exquisite. The nymphs, in their classic dancing, present a symphony in grace and motion, which reaches a grand climax in the mist dance and the fine art poses from the old masters.

All Atlanta will remember Paul Swann, who plays the leading part, as the artist who created such a favorable impression in classic dances introduced at the Atlanta theater last season assisted by several of Atlanta's fairest daughters.

"Diana, the Huntress," might be termed sensation or probably daring if it were not done with such fidelity to the ancient myths and with such artistic care.

FAMOUS ACCORDIONIST PLAYS AT VAUDETTE

(At the Vaudette.)

When the spotlight gleamed on the Vaudette theater stage at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and Pietro Diero, the world's famous accordionist, stepped out and bowed above his gleaming instrument, a spontaneous burst of applause shook the audience.

It was the first time that a high-priced vaudeville act from the "big time" has appeared in an Atlanta motion picture theater. The crowd was a tribute to that fact, a tribute to Manager Alpha Fowler for his enterprise, and, most of all, a tribute to Pietro and his marvelous playing.

The audience was expecting something, and they got it, for Pietro played as he has never played before. And he played a plenty. There was ragtime and there were ballads. You would never think "A Perfect Day" could be rendered on the accordion until you have heard Pietro play it. The feature of his repertoire were several Hawaiian selections, "Good-by, Hawaii," "My Honolulu Girl," "On the Beach at Waikiki," etc.

Pietro was encored again and again on that first appearance. And he is such an obliging sort of fellow that he played until his long hair flopped wildly.

Pietro will be at the Vaudette all this week. He plays at all afternoon and night performances.

INVENTORIES OF STOCK IN TRADE

It is commonly expected that the accountant should be able to prove this class of assets as he does the cash. He can where complete systems of account are kept. It is difficult to ascertain values other than by taking the inventory. The accountant is rarely associated with the force in doing this. The best way is to have him take the inventory.

Conventioners!
Make This Note---

"Tomorrow morning, go to Foote & Davies Co.'s Store." Invest one hour in seeing how this company "does it" in Atlanta. You will be well repaid for your time and effort. A will show you how this old established house has kept abreast of times—how it has expanded, opened new fields, taken on new lines and broadened the scope of its business. Nearly three hundred people are employed by this concern and it sells printing stationery, supplies, office furniture, filing equipment and office specialties. For more than seven years Foote & Davies Company have sold GF Allsteel with splendid success.

Visit to Foote & Davies Co.'s Store

Learn More About GF Allsteel

while at their store—ask them to tell you their experiences. They will gladly give you real facts. You will also find brother stationers from all parts of the country, at the convention, who know Allsteel and The G. F. Co. from intimate association—ask them about "the complete line" and the profit possibilities it carries.

GF Company Representatives are in attendance. Mr. W. H. Foster, President and General Manager; Mr. W. W. Galbreath, Assistant to the President; Mr. Lee A. Smith, Manager of Agencies, and Mr. L. Aronstam, Southern District Manager. They are here to help make your Convention a success, to meet old friends and to make new ones. Get acquainted. They'll not talk "Allsteel" unless you want them to.

Your Home

—should be a haven of rest and as comfortable and attractive as your means will permit.

One often neglects to provide the needed comforts for fear of assuming too large an obligation, but our plan makes possible the home beautiful without extravagance in buying and without assuming heavy obligations.

We furnish your home with all the needful fittings, such as Rugs, Art Squares, Portieres, Lace Curtains and other requisites for which you pay in very small weekly amounts.

Come here and see what we have and how agreeable our terms. If this is not convenient ask for a selection to be sent direct to your home for choosing.
